Bill To Liberalize Vets' Pensions Signed By Ike

CHEERS FOR IKE — Villagers lined the highway at Longwick, England, today as President Eisenhower and his host, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, rode in an open Rolls Royce en route to Chequers from Benson Airport. The President and Prime minister received rousing cheers from onlookers en route to their western strategy conference. (AP Wirephoto)

IKE TO BE GODFATHER OF ROYAL INFANT?

BALMORAL, Scotland (AP) — Word went around the Scottish highlands today that President Eisenhower may be godfather to Queen Elizabeth's expected child. Royal aides would not comment, but the people of the glens were saying nothing would be more natural than for the 33-year-old queen to invite the President to the christening or to name a proxy.

From the moment he arrived at Balmoral Castle the President was treated more like a favorite uncle than a visiting head of state.

$10 Billion Estimated As Cost Of Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower signed today a veterans pension bill that will cost the government an extra 10 billion dollars over the next 40 years.

The new law liberalizes pensions for needy veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean War with non-service-connected disabilities, and for their widows and orphans.

Eisenhower signed the bill at Chequers, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's summer home outside of London, this morning. The signing was announced simultaneously here and in London.

His action ended speculation that he might veto the bill because of its huge built-in spending authorizations, a policy he has opposed in the past.

The new pension law, effective next July 1, contains major changes which the administration urgently requested to reform the pension system.

SLIDING SCALE

The new provisions set up a sliding scale of payments based upon need and dependents to replace the "all or nothing" flat payments made now. Pensioners with the least private income would get the highest payments.

Nearly 70 per cent of the one and a quarter million veterans, widows and orphans now on the pension rolls could get increases.

No one drawing a pension when the new system takes effect would be forced to take a cut.

The new system puts widows and orphans of World War II and Korean veterans on the same footing as World War I widows in determining eligibility for pensions. This could add 205,000 cases to the pension rolls as soon as the law takes effect.

NET COST

Actually, the new system will produce long-range savings in veterans pensions totaling 12 billion dollars by the year 2,000. But the widows' provision would add 22 billion dollars, making the overall extra cost 10 billion dollars by the turn of the century.

The new law also plugs some loopholes in the present system which let veterans collect pensions despite large assets or sizable family income. It permits a "net worth" test to determine a veteran's eligibility for a pension and counts a wife's income above $1,200 per year.

The pension system, which now costs about $1,100,000,000 per year, has no connection with compensation paid to veterans disabled in military service.

Nehru Stand Wins Backing Of Press

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian newspapers today greeted Prime Minister Nehru's disclosure of Red Chinese raids across the Tibetan border into Indian territory with huge headlines and approval that a strong stand is being taken.

Several papers said the Chinese aggression appears part of a larger Communist design against the smaller nations of Asia.

The Statesman, published in New Delhi and Calcutta, said most of these nations look to India for protection.

"Nothing could be better calculated to fan fear and despondency in small countries bordering Tibet than the 'fearless' overwhelming by weight of numbers of small detachments of Indian police," the paper declared.

The Indian Express said it was clear now that the suppression of Tibet had brought the Communist threat to the whole of Asia and the democratic world.

Nehru told Parliament yesterday that several hundred Communist troops attacked a border post this week, routed the defenders and seized sections of India's northeast frontier agency south of Tibet.

Teamsters Seek To End Differences

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Delegates from 43 Bay Area Teamster Union locals met behind closed doors at Machinists Hall here today to thresh out differences with striking San Francisco Local 85.

Leaders of non-striking locals have said their members may cross Local 85's spreading picket lines next week. Most of these have accepted an employers' offer which Local 85 turned down.

Cold War Strategy Talks Opened By Ike, Macmillan

Combined A.P. and U.P.I

CHEQUERS, England (UPI)— President Eisenhower pledged today that the United States will not attempt a go-it-alone cold war settlement when he meets with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in September.

The President made this promise when he and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan started a weekend of top-secret cold war talks today.

They met with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd at Chequers, official country residence of British prime ministers, 40 miles from London.

The President, preparing for his talks next month with Soviet Premier Khrushchev, arrived shortly after midday for a week end of conferences at Macmillan's secluded country state.

The President flew in from Scotland where he had visited with Queen Elizabeth II and her family. He was met at Benson Airport by Macmillan.

At Benson, 18 miles from Chequers, a crowd of several hundred applauded and cheered as Eisenhower stepped from a British jet airliner. Crowds cheered Eisenhower in the villages along the way on the 40-minute drive to Chequers.

There was a brief demonstration outside the gates at Chequers by a few members of the League of Empire Loyalists, which never forgave the United States for opposing Britain's invasion of the Suez Canal Zone in 1956.

There was a scuffle between a demonstrator and a spectator, but it was unlikely either Macmillan or Eisenhower saw it because their car passed swiftly through the gate.

At Macmillan's 600-year-old country residence, he and Eisenhower presumably got started at lunch on their discussion of international problems.

They planned to retire to a cozy second floor room, known as the Long Gallery, for further discussion of such problems as West Berlin, disarmament, a ban on nuclear weapons tests, and strengthening of the North Atlantic alliance.

The day was beautiful — clear, crisp and brilliantly sunny.

Eisenhower and Macmillan rode in a gray Rolls Royce convertible with the top down. Each wore a topcoat, and the smiling President frequently tipped his hat to folks who called out cheery greetings.

'LOOKS GRAND'

On the way through the village of Chinnor, a woman standing in front of Parslow's butcher shop waved at the President and remarked: "He looks grand."

Near the entrance to Macmillan's residence four girls held up a placard reading: "Nuclear disarmament now."

Still another sign just beyond a pub called The Swan had this message: "Welcome Ike. Come on in."

Eisenhower looked rested and relaxed. He beamed at the cheering crowd.

GOT UP EARLY

Eisenhower got up early to head back to the conference table. He was awakened by the skirling bagpipes of the royal piper.

Queen Elizabeth II and other members of the royal family, including Prince Charles and Princess Anne, saw him off.

The Eisenhower-Macmillan meeting, which British newspapers have dubbed "the little summit," has no fixed agenda.

Bug In Eye Gets Blame In Accident

A 30,000-mile accident-free driving record was ruined yesterday for Nicholas Joseph Damato, 38 Taylor drive, Fairfax, when the pickup truck he was driving was struck in a head-on sideswipe by an oncoming driver blinded by a bug in his eye.

The accident occurred at approximately 6:30 p.m. yesterday east of Sonoma Creek in Solano County. The driver of the other vehicle was John J. Long who gave his address as El Paso, Tex. He was treated at Vallejo General Hospital for a possible fractured rib.

According to hospital attendants, Long disappeared before the examination was completed.

LOOT CONSUMED

Police Nab Robbers, But Swag Gone

A cop and robbers chase through San Rafael streets yesterday resulted in the apprehension of the two bad guys, but police failed to recover so much as a trace of the stolen loot.

The culprits were described by San Rafael police as "shabbily dressed and very dirty" boys, aged 13 and 14.

The swag: three pies allegedly lifted from the Food Mart at Fifth and Tamalpais avenues.

According to police reports, the youngsters were observed eating the pies by Officer Thomas Cheetam. The officer gave chase when the culprits began to run.

The were apprehended in Castro Alley after pursuit along Tamalpais and Lincoln avenues.

The evidence had been totally consumed.

The youthful bandits said they had run away from a local boys' home last Wednesday after being accused of stealing a radio. They had been sleeping they said, in a parked car under the freeway at Mission street.

They were returned to the home.

Officer Cheetham was unable to determine the flavor of the pies.

Segregationists Dealt Stiff Blows In 2 States

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Segregation forces were dealt two stunning blows yesterday in North Carolina and Virginia.

The Durham, N.C., school board voted last night to admit eight Negro students to four previously all-white schools next Wednesday. The city thus became the seventh North Carolina community to adopt limited public school integration.

In Norfolk, Va., Federal Judge Walter E. Hoffman ordered that four Negroes be admitted to white schools in the port city, thus overriding a ruling by Virginia's controversial state Pupil Placement Board, which has the power to assign all students to schools in the state.

The decision by the Durham school board means that some 50 Negro students will attend previously all-white schools as North Carolina moves into its third year of token integration.

The largest group will be at Havelock, N.C., where 17 children of Negro Marine Corps personnel have been admitted to two white elementary schools. The Havelock schools opened quietly yesterday and the state's other integrated public schools will open next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Elsewhere on the racial front: A group of Negro children were denied admission to the all-white Coleman Elementary School in Smyrna, Tenn., yesterday. The Negroes were children of Stewart Air Force Base personnel.

City schools opened quietly in Atlanta, Ga., yesterday for what may be the last term before full integration pressure begins.

Soviets Agree To Hold Up Nuclear Tests

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to hold off testing nuclear weapons just as long as the Western powers do and said it hopes this will be forever.

The Soviets responded to the U.S. and British announcements this week extending the Western ban on nuclear tests at least for the rest of the year.

The Soviet government has made official a pledge given Aug. 10 by Premier Nikita Khrushchev. He told a British clergyman in a letter then that the Soviets were "ready to accept the most solemn obligations not to be the first to conduct any further tests of nuclear weapons."

Slight Mercury Rise Predicted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Coastal overcast and inland sunshine will continue throughout the weekend, the Weather Bureau predicted today. Temperatures should rise a little.

The mercury rose yesterday into the hundreds in desert areas, ranged from 80 to 90 in valley areas and from 60 to 80 along the coast.

BUT HE'LL BE CAREFUL WITH THE CRANK

Just about everybody got in the act to wish big Charles Hong of 61 Park road, Fairfax, a speedy recovery at home when he left San Rafael General Hospital yesterday after four days' treatment for broken ribs and cuts and bruises — suffered when the ancient truck in which he has long delivered vegetables in Marin ran over him as he was cranking it. Among well wishers was E. F. Hore, chairman of the hospital's board and a customer of Hong's for 28 years. In photo are (from left) Mrs. A. Gordon Somerville of hospital auxiliary, Hong, orderly Paul Magee, Mrs. Leslie Turner of Volunteers, and Hore — and scads of flowers visitors brought along to Hong. (Independent-Journal photo)

Traffic Count Started At Vista Point

A special traffic survey of the use of Vista Point at the north end of the Golden Gate Bridge was under way this morning when a group of volunteers began asking questions of Marin motorists.

The survey, conducted by the Marin Visitors Bureau of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, is for the purpose of researching a proposed information center building on the point.

Chairman of the committee is Walter R. Castro, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The survey will continue tomorrow and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Mrs. Dennis Tells Of Shakespearean Festival's Plays

Mrs. C. I. Dennis of Mill Valley, an ardent Shakespeare enthusiast, returned recently with glowing reports of the annual Shakespearean Festival she attended in Ashland, Ore. She has been attending the event for several years.

Mrs. Dennis reports that the new Elizabethan theater is very impressive. Plays were "Measure for Measure," "Anthony and Cleopatra," "Twelfth Night" and "King John." "Having seen all the performances of the Old Vic group here last summer, I feel these people are doing a marvelous job in comparison," she said.

While in Ashland Mrs. Dennis also attended a film festival and the "Trinity Noons," lectures in connection with renaissance studies.

Party To Welcome The Richard Duffs

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

To welcome the Richard Duffs of Kent Woodlands home, a cocktail party and buffet dinner will be given Saturday night, Sept. 12, by the Leon Smiths and Joseph Hickingbothams at the Hickingbothams' San Rafael home.

The Duffs, who with their six children have been in Europe for a year, headquartering in Florence, are arriving home next week.

THE LAGUNITAS CLUB'S dinner dance on Saturday night was a formal affair but a gay one. Before it a large cocktail party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dibblee (Jennifer McCone) at the Ross home of her mother, Mrs. Alexander McAndrew, and Mr. McAndrew in Ross. The Dibblees with their two children, Jennifer and Jonathan, are here from their Merced home for a two weeks' visit. Among their guests at the party, who also spent the weekend with them, were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brook, who have a large ranch at Chowchilla. They are now at their place in Aptos and the Dibblees are spending this weekend with them. The youngsters remained at the McAndrew home.

On Wednesday night Mrs. McAndrew's son, Michael McCone of San Francisco, and his wife, Nini, entertained members of the Tennis and Wine Club at a buffet dinner at the McAndrew home. The McCones have given this mid-summer party every year for several years. As to the Tennis and Wine Club, it is composed of members of the Golden Gate Tennis Club who play tennis every Wednesday night and dine and wine together.

"SOME HELP US CELEBRATE a county schools office New Year" read the invitations sent out by Dr. and Mrs. Virgil Hollis to the party they gave Thursday night at their home in Little Reed Heights. And about 125 guests joined in the celebration. They had a delicious buffet dinner, piece de resistance being korna, made by Mrs. Hollis from a recipe brought from India, the basic ingredients being chicken and rice.

Dr. Hollis is Marin County superintendent of schools and the guests included the members of his staff, district superintendent, curriculum coordinators, members of the Marin County board of supervisors, the county board of education, heads of county offices closely associated with the school department, and members of the Fourth Estate, husbands and wives.

Assisting in serving were the Hollis' small daughter, Candy, and Dana and Catherine Hinze, daughters of Dr. Richard Hinze, Dr. Hollis' assistant, and Katie and Bill Blackmore, whose father is Les Blackmore, administrative assistant in Dr. Hollis' office.

A DISTINGUISHED TRAVELING companion of Mrs. Neville G. Adams and her year-old daughter, Michelle, who arrived on Sunday from New Zealand aboard the "Monterey" was Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone. The 76-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria and great-aunt of Queen Elizabeth, the present ruler of England, had been visiting her daughter, Lady May Abel Smith, wife of the governor general of Queensland. She was met at the ship in San Francisco by British consular officials and taken on a sightseeing tour. Later she left by train for Vancouver, B.C. for a visit before returning to London.

Mrs. Adams, who with her little daughter, is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Archer B. Forsyth in Mill Valley, said that Princess Alice "fell in love" with Michelle and spent much time playing with her and taking her for rides around the deck. Mr. and Mrs. Adams, former residents of Mill Valley, are returning to Marin County to live. He is joining her in October. When they left Mill Valley they went to Indonesia where they stayed a year. For the past two years they have been in New Zealand.

Another houseguest of Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth was Mrs. Harold Barton, who after a week's visit, left yesterday for Los Angeles. After that she will return to her home in Toronto, Canada. The Forsyths visited her there last year.

STYLISH was the luncheon and fashion show given Wednesday in the Venetian and Gold Rooms of the Fairmont by St. Elizabeth's Infant Hospital Auxiliary. Glimpsed in the throng were former Marinites, Mrs. S. Nicholas Jacobs and Mrs. Ray Bailey, who have been neighbors in the Crest Royal. The Baileys moved the following day to Burlingame where they have bought a home. Mrs. S. E. Onorato, who with her family stayed at the Arthur Dettners' home in Ross for several months this summer was with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Francis Scarpulla. Another former Marinite was Mrs. Albert J. Raisch. Mrs. Harold Schutte of Ross had a number of guests. Among these was Mrs. Edmund Mahon of Mill Valley. She and Dr. Mahon had just returned from Tahoe where he attended a medical meeting.

ABOUT A HUNDRED guests are invited to the cocktail party Dr. and Mrs. Henry Garland are hosting this evening at their San Rafael home.

VISITING Mrs. Peter Barnato (Gloria Duncan) of Fairfax is her mother, Mrs. Thalbert Duncan, who arrived Sunday night by jet from the East. The Duncans, formerly of Kent Woodlands, now live in Sutton Manor in New York City. He will arrive for the Labor Day weekend and then go to Los Angeles on business. After her visit with Mrs. Barnato and her two children, Lisa, 3, and Peter, who is a year and a half old, is over Mrs. Duncan will go to Billings, Mont. to see her other daughter, Mrs. Guy L. Lookabaugh (Olive Duncan) before returning home.

LEAVING for Europe on Sept. 14 are the Arthur Feidlers of San Rafael. They will fly to York where they'll meet friends, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Reading of Stanton, N.J., who will be their traveling companions. They'll fly to Paris to start their five weeks' continental tour. Arthur Feidler III will stay at the San Rafael home while the senior Feidlers are away.

FOR THE OPENING of the opera season on Sept. 11, Mr. and Mrs. Norman S. Halsey III, former San Rafael residents, flew from Honolulu where they are now living. They have just moved into their beautiful new home overlooking Diamond Head and have sold their San Rafael place. The Halseys, who will fly home in mid-October, have taken a house in San Francisco.

Miss Stroud, John Stoufer Trade Vows

When Sharon Stroud exchanged marriage vows with John R. Stoufer at a recent afternoon ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, she wore a long trained gown of white taffeta with an intermission hemline. Pearl and shell sequins accented the sweetheart neckline and were in floral design on the gown. The sleeves were long. A pearl coronet held the bride's fingertip length veil and she carried a shower bouquet of white rosebuds and carnations.

ATTENDANTS

Diane Howard of San Francisco, honor maid, wore a gown of sapphire blue chiffon over taffeta. A matching net band was on her hair, and white carnations, pink rosebuds and blue forget-me-nots were in her bouquet. The four bridesmaids, Sharon's cousin, Woodie Norris of Willows, Mrs. John Cazziniga of Stockton, Carol Hicok and Linda Schwartzberg of Novato, wore blue nylon over taffeta gowns and matching veils. The flower girl, six-year-old Nancy Keegan of Novato wore a floor length dress of white net over taffeta and she and the bridesmaids carried bouquets like the maid of honor, only Nancy's was smaller.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Stroud of Novato, was given in marriage by her father and the Rev. Herrick J. Lane officiated.

The bride's cousins, Alan Cox of Novato and Stevie Adams of Millbrae, were the ring bearers and the bridegroom's brother, Frank M. Stoufer III of Anaheim, was best man. The bridegroom, who is now stationed at Paine's Air Force Base in Washington, was formerly at Hamilton Air Force Base and he chose four friends there, Roy Hawkinson, David Early, Robert Crowley and George Fletcher, as ushers.

RECEPTION

A reception in the Mariana Room at Rickey's Rancho Rafael followed the wedding. Dixie Vail of Novato, who was in charge of the guest book, caught the bridal bouquet. The three tiered wedding cake was topped by a minature bride and bridegroom.

When the newlyweds left by car for Everett, Wash. where they will reside, the bride was wearing a light blue suit with a black hat.

The bridegroom is the son of Lt. Cmdr. Frank Stoufer (USN, rtd.) and Mrs. Stoufer of Anaheim. She wore a gown of white nylon over lavender taffeta and her accessories and carnation corsage were white. The bride's mother was gowned in tan lace over taffeta and her hat and accessories were beige. Her flowers were also white carnations.

The bride, a graduate of Novato High School, has a 19-months old brother, Ralph. The new benedict, a graduate of high school in Anaheim, is a dental prosthetic technician in the Air Force. He has two sisters, Mrs. William Wilcox of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Dean Martin of Anaheim and three brothers, Frank, Fred and Denny Stoufer, all of Anaheim.

Law Officers Swap Details On Criminals

Northern California criminals may find things a little hotter for them today as the result of a meeting of law enforcement officers this week in Marin.

The officers, from throughout Northern California met at Rickey's Rancho Rafael Thursday to exchange detailed information about suspected criminals.

All are members of the Northern California Safe and Burglary Investigators Assn., meeting with the purpose of trying to link certain crimes to roving suspects.

"We have solved many crimes right here at these meetings," declared William C. Bradley of the Marin County sheriff's office and president of the group.

"Today our criminals are mechanized," he added. "They can be in Portland this morning and in Los Angeles tonight. Some of them use airplanes."

As police and sheriff's officers rose from the banquet tables to describe the appearance and techniques of certain suspects, a "mug shot" was flashed on a screen of the person in question. Most of them had long records of crime.

An Oakland officers reported that "we keep hearing rumblings that one safe cracker is at work in the Bay Area." He named him. "If you find you are having crude, but successful jobs pulled, he may be your man," he said.

The 75 officers attending the meeting, each in turn, described suspected criminals or unsolved crimes, in hopes that the information might lead to an arrest, perhaps in some jurisdiction other than his own.

Receives Certificate

Robert O. Wallace of 385 Los Colindas road, Terra Linda, has received a certificate of achievement for his contribution as a technical representative in installation of radar equipment at Ft. Baker. He works in 6th Army Air Defense Command Headquarters.

Labor Council Endorsed United Drive

The Marin County Labor Council has endorsed the combined appeal of the Marin United Fund and the United Crusade.

A council resolution points out that the number of agencies represented by the fund has more than doubled to a total of 18 since 1952, and "the three largest drives, which in 1952 were appealing separately, are now combined."

The three are the Community Chest, Red Cross and Boy Scouts, according to Marin District Director Aubrey Burns.

The council called for the support of union members, noting that the crusade fell short of its goal last year.

NEW TAX FORM SIMPLER, BUT COST THE SAME

CHICAGO (AP) — A simplified, single page income tax form will be available for taxpayers filing in 1960.

The new form, 1040W, was described by Dana Latham, Internal Revenue Service commissioner, in an address to a meeting of accountants.

Form 1040W can be used by anyone whose income from sources other than salary does not exceed $200.

The two forms in use now are 1040, a long form, and 1040A, a short form.

CAT JOURNEYS 2,000 MILES TO OLD HOME

ALHAMBRA (UPI)—Skunky, a black and white cat, apparently walked 2,000 miles to get back to his old home in Minneapolis.

Skunky's owner, Ralph Morey, said today he was notified by relatives in Minneapolis that Skunky recently showed up there after being missing for the past 18 months.

Morey said he moved to this Los Angeles area suburb three years ago and shortly afterward had the cat sent here by air. But Skunky disappeared 18 months ago.

"I don't know how he did it," said Morey. "He came out by air, so he couldn't have seen any landmarks to travel by."

Miss Universe Contest Location Under Study

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The future of the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant will be determined next week at a meeting of Catalina swimsuit officials, a company spokesman said yesterday.

"We expect to discuss the situation among ourselves," the spokesman said. "There definitely will be a Miss Universe contest next year, but where it will be held has not yet been decided."

The Long Beach Beauty Congress severed relations two weeks ago with Catalina, cosponsors of the beauty contest and owners of the names Miss Universe and Miss U.S.A.

Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer of the contest, said that Catalina had demanded a "substantial sum each year for the privilege of the use of the names."

Both groups have said they would reconsider a renewal of the contract but as yet no negotiations have started. Meinhardt said he is going ahead with plans for the International Beauty Congress Aug. 4 to 14 in Long Beach next year.

"As far as we're concerned the break with Catalina is definite," Meinhardt said. "We have heard nothing from them at all. If they were so anxious to renew the contract you'd think they would have gotten in touch with us by now."

The beauty pageant founder said the Long Beach group would not consider taking the initiative to renew the contract although it "definitely" would be fitting to discuss the matter.

Novato Girl To Compete In Pageant

Sandra Lee Lazzari of Novato and 44 other beautiful young women will parade across the stage of Governor's Hall in Sacramento tomorrow afternoon in the California State Fair and Exposition's "Maid of California" Pageant.

Miss Lazzari is Marin County's representative in the pageant. The fair will open Wednesday and run through Sept. 13.

The pageant will start at 1 p.m. Each girl will make one initial appearance during which 20 finalists will be chosen. They will then be called back to the stage for a second showing. The winner will remain a secret until the coronation during opening ceremonies of the fair.

The girls will be judged 80 per cent on face and figure; and 10 per cent each on poise and personality.

Corte Madera's Chief To School

Corte Madera Police Chief Frank L. Nelson will attend the 18th annual California Institute of Peace Officers' training school Monday through Sept. 18 at the University of California in Berkeley.

Nelson will take a morning course in police organization and administration. He plans to be back at his office by 11 a.m. each day.

Doomed Pair's Plea For New Trial Rejected

Two San Francisco youths under death sentence in San Quentin prison were denied a new trial yesterday by the state Supreme Court.

They are Jimmy Lee Jones, 21, and his companion, Phillip Henry Hamilton, 24, who pleaded guilty to first degree murder charges in the rape slaying of Mrs. Ruth Swanson Rivers, 66, in San Francisco in 1958.

The court rejected an appeal by the pair for a new trial on grounds that they might not have been sentenced to death if they had pleaded not guilty and asked for a jury trial.

Jones made news earlier this week when he engaged in a fistfight with another Death Row inmate.

Novato Man Tells Sheriff Home Looted

Binoculars, camera equipment and a scale model train, worth about $800 in all, are missing from a Novato home, the owner complained to the sheriff last night.

B. J. Stawoway of 71 Lambert street said he discovered his loss when he began packing his belongings in order to move to a new home. He told sheriff's deputies the theft must have occurred sometime during the past month.

Missing are a 35 millimeter camera with telephoto lens, valued at $250; binoculars worth $275; a $300 model train, and set of gold cuff links worth $50.

Ike's Veto Of Water Bill Catastrophe, Says Brown

SACRAMENTO (AP) — To put it mildly, Gov. Brown is unhappy over President Eisenhower's veto of the national water projects bill which cancelled more than 91 million dollars in California appropriations.

"Unless the Congress votes to over-ride, and I hope it does just that, this will be the most catastrophic veto of all for California," Brown said yesterday in a statement after announcement of Eisenhower's veto.

Refusal to sign the $1,200,000,000 measure will prove "far more costly to the people of California and the United States than approval would have been," the governor contended.

As for California's proposed projects that were thus set aside, Brown said, "I just can't emphasize enough how important all these projects are to the future welfare and prosperity of California."

ASSAILS PRESIDENT

He assailed Eisenhower for being concerned with "budget-balancing to the exclusion of everything else, including human welfare and vitally needed resources development.

"Even in purely fiscal terms, his veto will prove expensive. One good example is the hard-won allocation of $2,415,000 to start design and construction work on power facilities on the Trinity River Project."

Unless power facilities are started immediately for the dam — scheduled for completion in one or two years—the state could lose four million dollars a year in power revenues, Brown said.

DOESN'T MAKE SENSE

"This doesn't make sense even in terms of the President's insistence that money is more important than national progress," he added.

In his veto message, however, Eisenhower said a separate appropriation bill is needed to provide for federal construction of the facilities so they will be in place when the dam is finished.

He said this is needed "if Congress continues its refusal to save 60 million dollars of taxpayers' money through providing for construction of electric power facilities by nonfederal interests."

In addition to the Trinity project, California appropriations in the bill included money for work on Black Butte, New Hogan, Pine Flat, Success and Terminus reservoirs and Carbon Canyon and Whiskeytown dams.

ALSO INCLUDED

Also included was work on the San Joaquin, Santa Clara and Truckee rivers and along Devil, East, Twin, Warm, Lytle, Mill, San Antonio, Chino, Bautista, San Lorenzo, Clear, Spring and Cow Creeks.

It would have financed drainage projects in Los Angeles County and other work on Santa Maria Valley levees and in Stewart Canyon and Lewiston.

More than 5 million dollars was set aside for Red Bluff water diversion by the Tehama-Colusa Canal and the Corning Canal and distribution system along the American River and the El Dorado, Madera and Friant-Kern systems.

Concert Adds Male Quartet, Dance Group

A barbershop quartet and a dance group will each share the spotlight as added attractions at the final outdoor concert of the season by the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Non-Marching band Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Terra Linda.

The quartet goes by the name of the "Marinwood Barber-ituates."

Its members are tenor Ron McHugh, lead Don Higgins, baritone Harvey Downey, and bass Dr. D. Gwynn Thomson. Numbers they will sing include "Coney Island Baby," and "The Lost Chord."

Dancers from the Madelynn Green studio in San Francisco will present a Russian number and an Italian "Tarantella." The troupe is composed of adults from the Bay Area.

The band, under the direction of Joe Curatilo, will perform in the band shell erected on the playground of Hoffman School. An audience favorite, "Stars and Stripes Forever," will be played by request as the finale.

Contracting Firm Files Incorporation

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan announced a Marin County building contractor firm, Clyde Building Associates, Inc., has filed articles of incorporation with his office, to be capitalized with 1,000 no-par shares.

The firm listed its directors as William J. and Edith J. Clyde, 47 Cedar street and William E. Metzger, 27 Tamalpais avenue, all of San Anselmo.

Redwood Empire Assn. Off To New Start In Marin

The Redwood Empire Association seems to have lost its old fire.

It needs to take a good, close look at itself.

That's what we said in this space nearly a year ago, just after the REA's 38th annual convention.

The convention, we noted, came up with NO real solid suggestions nor a single wild-eyed dream.

With a new slate of officers commencing a new year of service, following the convention, we observed then that the time was appropriate for reappraisal.

Now, nearly one year later, the REA is approaching the time for its 39th annual convention.

We are indeed encouraged to note many signs that the REA may be rekindling its old fire.

The association's youthful and energetic young president, Don Emerson, Lake County resort operator, seems to be leading the way.

A new field man, Tom Cox by name, has been employed to re-establish grass roots support for REA. From his headquarters in Santa Rosa he has traveled up and down the Redwood Highway reawakening interest in the value of a regional tourist-promotion organization.

In Lake County, especially, where he has worked in consultation with President Emerson and others, the field man seems to have aroused new enthusiasm and support for the Redwood Empire Association's aims and its efforts to achieve those aims. As we understand it, the Lake County activities were intended as a kind of pilot program for subsequent work in the other nine counties of the Redwood Empire.

Thanks to President Emerson's influence and the efforts of Frank Meyer, REA vice president for Marin County, a program is underway to stir new interest here in the association's activities. Meyer convened a nominating committee meeting one night earlier this week for the purpose of lining up new faces (with new ideas and new energy) to represent Marin as REA directors.

Week after next, Meyer has scheduled a kind of orientation meeting for new directors, local chamber of commerce representatives and others interested in promoting the tourist "industry." President Emerson and other REA officials will be present—Sept. 16, 8 p. m., at Olney Hall, College of Marin—to explain REA's aims and operations.

Among those present, of course, will be the REA's veteran general manager, Clyde Edmonson, whose ability as a tourist promotional organization manager has been recognized nationally on many occasions. (One thing about REA, in spite of its apparent decline which preceded the present apparent rejuvenation, it was able to hold on to one of the best association managers in the country in the person of Edmonson.)

We join President Emerson and Vice President Meyer in the hope that the "new start" in Marin will help with the revitalization of REA because, as we have said in this space on many previous occasions, we think the tourist business is the biggest and best single "industrial development" that could be built up to the benefit of Marin and the rest of the Redwood Empire.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Dr. Schmidt, Weissich To Serve On Study Of Criminal Insanity

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Two Marin residents have been named on the 16-man committee. Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk have designated as the Joint Committee to Study Problems of Insanity in Criminal Cases.

District Attorney W. O. Weissich and Dr. David G. Schmidt, San Quentin Prison psychiatrist and president of the Marin Boy Scout Council, were put on the group which will be headed by San Francisco's DA, Thomas C. Lynch.

In his press conference this week, Governor Brown gave an example who what he expected this committee to look into:

"In that case last week, that (Stephen A.) Nash case where we had a man who was obviously dangerous and we let him out and he killed 11 people. We can't let a thing like that go unnoticed."

This committee is supposed to notice it.

SPEAKING OF the governor's press conference recalls the unusual way in which he opened it. Usually he either has a brief message for the newsmen and then sits back to answer questions, or he has nothing to volunteer at all.

On Tuesday he launched into what amounted to a small sized speech. It had two principal points (1) that he was in no mood to answer any more questions about his activities as a favorite son candidate for president, and (2) that he is cancelling his long-planned trip to the Orient this fall.

Both of them, he said, were caused by the need for "major effort that I am trying to make in state government and to meet the needs of the people of this state."

Talk of his candidacy "tends to divert" public attention from these efforts, he said, and a vacation would prevent him from working on "the things that I think are important."

He named the appointment of 35 judges (including one from Marin), highway and water problems, state government reorganization, and the appointment of the FEPC commission, Economic Development Agency, Golden Gate Authority and an atomic energy coordinator as some of these important things.

But some of the observers noticed that he linked the two ideas together—the talk of his candidacy and cancellation of his vacation. They noted that keeping at home, on the job, and available would be of the greatest help to his political future right at this time.

STATE CONTROLLER Alan Cranston clamped the lid on the income of state inheritance tax appraisers this week. He found that they made as high as $33,000 in the first six months of this year.

Reports of Marin's two appraisers didn't put them in that class. Lee V. Holman, a recent appointee, didn't file a return. William S. Nock, the holdover appraiser, reported $6,612.71 income for the half year period.

This was slightly higher than the state average, which was just under $5,000.

The real question Cranston is raising, however, is the efficiency of having these appraisers political appointees. In several instances judges were using one appraiser more than others. Indicating they found them better appraisers? Or political buddies?

Fluoridation Not Bad, Unneeded

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

You deserve praise and credit for publishing Mr. Donald G. Davis's message to the publin in his "Please Don't Give My Children Candy, Cookies; It's Bad For Them" in the I-J Reporter's Notebook of Aug. 21.

This is really the crux of the fluoridation problem and not fluoridation per se. For correct nutrition, control of the emotions, and adequate exercise make the addition of fluorides in public water unnecessary.

Not only do these prevent caries, cavities and mottling in teeth, but in addition to producing sound teeth, they produce sound health in all parts of the body.

May I ask you to read the enclosed copy of my present letter to three psychiatrists?

CHARLES FLAMMER
Kentfield

(NOTE: Reader Flammer enclosed a nine-paged, single spaced letter to three psychiatrists who had been quoted in the press as reporting at a recent American Orthopsyciatric Association convention in San Francisco: "Opposition by vocal, organized groups of mentally unstable persons is causing defeat of water fluoridation programs throughout the country and is seriously delaying important medical health programs." He maintains that by proper health cultivation and preservation, and without fluoridation, dental caries and illnesses of every kind can be prevented.)

2 Bus Tickets Cost Less Than One

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I just returned from a roundtrip to Reno by Greyhound bus. Usually I take the train up there, so I was not aware of the fare policies of the Greyhound lines.

I purchased a round-trip ticket from Mill Valley to Reno from the Greyhound agent in Mill Valley for $13.31. In Nevada I was told that there was something funny about this fare. After getting back to Reno to catch the bus for home, I inquired of the ticket agent at the Greyhound bus depot there, what the roundtrip fare was between Reno and Mill Valley, which he quoted at $13.31, and also the roundtrip fare between Reno and San Francisco, which came to $11.33.

I verified this latter fare at the Greyhound bus depot in San Francisco on Seventh Street by asking two different ticket sellers at two different times about the San Francisco-Reno roundtrip fare.

Now the regular roundtrip fare from Mill Valley to San Francisco is one dollar. By buying two separate tickets—one roundtrip from Mill Valley to San Francisco and one from San Francisco to Reno—the cost of the trip would have come to $12.33. Taxes are included in all these fares quoted.

But by buying a through roundtrip ticket from Mill Valley to Reno I was charged $13.31. In other words, I had to pay $1.98 for the roundtrip from Mill Valley to San Francisco ordinarily to be had for one dollar.

I have not had time to check whether these fancy fares are also in force from other Marin points or on other roundtrip fares. But, I think, these facts should be made known if they exist.

State To Find Out If Salaries Of School Administrators Too High

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—An investigation long over-due has been initiated by State Sen. Stanley Arnold (D-Susanville), who succeeded Sen. George Miller (D-Martinez), as chairman of the Senate Interim Committee On Governmental Administration.

This will be a probe of the high salaries commanded by school administrators. It will be directed toward leveling off the salaries in comparison or on some sort of a ratio with average daily attendance, and determining why administration salaries are so high when the people who do the work, the school teachers, are at a much lower level.

SENATOR ARNOLD says many school districts throughout the state are squandering the educational dollar on everything but class-room instruction. He called the salaries "exorbitant," and asserted there is a trend of "empire building of plush positions in the school system."

Citing the highest school district superintendent's salary in the state as being in Los Angeles, Senator Arnold pointed out this is $34,000 annually, as compared to the governor's salary of $40,000 a year. He said only 11 out of 100,000 state employee draw salaries in the $20,000 a year range.

FURTHER, MANY of the school districts paying high salaries to their superintendents and assistants are receiving state aid as "impoverished school districts" while paying far in excess of statewide averages.

The Senator pointed outh that the Los Angeles superintendent's salary is more than the sum paid the chief justice of the supreme court. In Santa Clara county, the Fremont Union High School district pays its superintendent $20,500 a year, yet the average daily attendance is only 3,000.

The probe was sparaked, Senator Arnold said, by a recent preliminary study which indicated that less than 50 per cent of all money appropriated to school districts is being spent in the classroom to teach the children.

This appears to be at least a partial answer to the oft-asked question of whether or not the public is getting its money's worth for the dollars put into the school system. The State Department of Education says these will amount to about a billion and a half dollars during the 1959-60 school year.

THE QUESTION now is to determine the extent of administration necessary, and whether or not it can be cut. In fairness to the school districts, much of the administrative work is required by state law, which is a matter for the Legislature to consider.

The fact that the minimum salary for school teachers is $350 per month, although but few teachers are on that small a salary, appears to indicate too much inequality between the paper pushers and the men and women who actually do the work of educating the young.

Bank Robber Finds Himself Up Against 'Professional' Hazards

When your money runs low, you, at one time or another, might have joked: "Gee, I gotta do something—maybe rob a bank."

It's a standing joke, even among upright citizens. But apparently some people are taking it seriously, on the mistaken idea that it's an easy way to get rich.

But if you really go into it (not that I did), bank robbery is no easy profession. First of all, you'll need some help, at least a getaway driver. You might have all the confidence in the world in yourself, but you never know whether the other guy might squeal.

Then there's always the danger that you'll get shot in the act. Even if you succeed, there's no way of knowing how much you'll get. Suppose you hit the jackpot, and make a clean getaway with a big roll. Your troubles are only beginning.

What to do with the money? Some robbers who go "big time" probably figure they can serve seven, 10 or 20 years, then enjoy the thousands stashed away somewhere. But you can't just bury it in the ground somewhere. In 20 years, the currency could disintegrate, or you might get out and find a subdivision where a forest had been.

How about leaving it with your girl friend or wife? But is she going to wait that long, whiling away her youth, when there's a life to enjoy and money to do it? Well, if you don't trust women, you might leave it with your best pal. But he'll want a big share of it for just keeping mum. But even if he uses all of it, you're in no position to turn him in for embezzlement or breach of contract.

It's a tough racket, no matter from which end of the gun you look at it.

NEXT TIME you see one of your friends wearing a new hearing aid, don't be too sympathetic. He could be merely listening to the ball game over one of those little transistor radios.

The clamor may not be over yet as to where Marin's third municipal court judge will have his chambers. Ever since the county decided to look around for rental space outside the courthouse, tongues have been wagging. Some people contend there's still space in the courthouse, and they're threatening to take the case to the grand jury.

A flat air mattress is a lot worse than a flat tire during an extended vacation trip. Just ask San Rafael City Clerk Lynn Morgan and his wife. On their first night of camping in the Oregon wilds, they pumped up their air mattress and retired inside their station wagon.

Around midnight, Lynn got up with a back ache. The air mattress was flat, and he was resting directly against the hard floor.

SAN RAFAEL'S new "meter maids" will be able to sneak up silently on overparked cars, if the police department decides to buy the new electrically - powered scooters. The orange colored scooter is being test-driven now.

The driver has to watch only three gadgets—brake, accelerator, and handle for steering. And away he goes at 11 miles per hour.

Governor Brown apparently thinks a lot of Sheriff Lou Mountanos. He's sent the sheriff a large picture autographed: "To the greatest sheriff in all the West."

Tests Set To Harness H-Bomb For Industry

By CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

WASHINGTON (CQ) — American scientists have scheduled three experiments during the next two years to harness the hydrogen bomb for industrial use.

By setting off nuclear explosives deep in the earth they hope to:

1—Produce a vast underground reservoir of power and heat and large amounts of man-made isotopes in giant salt domes in southern New Mexico.

2—Carve out a new harbor near Cape Thompson in northwestern Alaska.

Unlock huge amounts of oil from shale formations in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming.

The salt-bed shot is currently scheduled for July, 1960. The Alaskan harbor shot probably will be set off in the spring of 1961, and the shale shot sometime after that date.

THE EXPERIMENTS are a part of the program known as Project Plowshare started by the Atomic Energy Commission in April, 1958. It is in line with the Administration's policy to develop peaceful uses for atomic energy.

The scientists also have a number of interesting proposals in the "talk stage." Through the use of underground nuclear explosives they believe the huge fields of Athabasca tar sands in Alberta, Canada, can be heated and the oil drained off; that secondary recovery can be made of oil in this country by blasting underground petroleum pools inaccessible at the present time; that low-grade and inaccessible mineral deposits can be successfully mined through leeching; that fresh water can be created out of salt water, and that huge underground storage reservoirs of water and large dams and canals can be built—even a second canal across the Isthmus of Panama.

LAYMEN ALSO have come up with ideas for Plowshare projects. A woman recently urged AEC to use the H-bomb to kill all the snakes in Africa.

Her idea was, of course, farfetched. But Congress has the same opinion of many of the Plowshare proposals. Sen. Dennis Chavez (D.N.M.) and Sen. Gordon Allott (R.Colo.) have called some of them "pipedreams." The House Appropriations Committee recently questioned the "urgency to make a crash program" out of Plowshare on the basis of the ideas presented to the committee.

Industry has shown little interest in the program. AEC Chairman John A. McCone has noted that "we have not got a customer for the (Alaskan) harbor." AEC also has no customer for the power it hopes to generate in the southern New Mexico salt beds. No oil or chemical company has come forward to finance half of the $2.6 million shale shot, although the government solicited such private financing in letters to 70 companies on Feb. 18. The government has now scaled down its hopes to a $500,000 industry contribution.

LOCAL CITIZENS who live near the proposed test have expressed concern about danger from radiation or to property in the vicinity of the test sites. This concern has been reflected in a general wait-and-see attitude about the shots on the part of their Congressional delegations.

AEC has sought to dispel these fears. AEC has tied the entire Plowshare program to underground experiments. Scientists claim that on the basis of the Rainier shots which took place in Nevada in 1957, they have proved that underground nuclear blasts cause little shock in the site area, and virtually no radiation or contamination.

AEC Chairman McCone has stated repeatedly that the Commissioners have not yet finally approved any Plowshare experiment. Furthermore, none will be approved, he said, that would endanger human or animal life, vegetation or the land area around the site of the shots.

Novato Church To Open Nursery School Sept. 15

The North Marin Nursery School, sponsored by the Northland Assembly of God Church, Novato, will begin classes Sept. 15, it was announced today by Mrs. William Vickery, wife of the pastor of the church.

Registration for enrollment is open to children between the ages of two years, nine months and five years, six months, she said.

The nursery school, said Mrs. Vickery, is a non-profit, nondenominational undertaking to be held in the educational annex of the church at 1370 South Novato boulevard. The school opened for the first time last year, licensed by the state Department of Social Welfare.

Serving again this year as principal will be Mrs. Jean Ansley, who is a graduate of the University of Minnesota in childhood education.

Morning classes will be held on a two-day and a three-day per week basis. Registration fee is $10; monthly tuition is $14 or $20. Registration forms for enrollment may be obtained by writing to the school at P. O. Box 633, Novato, stating the parents' names, address and telephone number, said Mrs. Vickery.

Interested parents are requested to act promptly.

Missionary Program Has New Concept

The foreign missions department of the Assemblies of God has announced a new concept in its world-wide missionary program.

Announced at the 29th biennial meeting currently under way in San Antonio, Tex., was "Global Conquest." a new three-stage world evangelism program.

Emphasis this year will be on supplying literature to the mission field. Next year training of workers will be stressed. And the third year will see the teams and their equipment moved into major cities throughout the world.

Outdoor Rites Slated For Taylor Park Again

The Marin County Council of Churches will conduct its next-to-last outdoor service of the season at Samuel P. Taylor State Park tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Guest speaker tomorrow will be Lowell King of San Anselmo.

He is the chaplain and Christian counselor at the Marin County Juvenile Hall, where his services are also sponsored by the council of churches.

The final service of the year will be conducted Sept. 6 by Rev. John Bonner of San Geronimo, president of the Marin Council of Churches, who also opened the series.

Officers of the council report that the changing of the meeting time to 9 a.m. has resulted in increased attendance at the services.

A number of picnickers have joined overnight campers for the brief worship service, they said.

TV Profanity Hit

McKINNEY, Tex. (AP)—The McKinney Ministerial Alliance has assailed the increased use of profanity in television dramatic productions as a "total disregard for decency and a violation of the sanctity of our homes."

The first public recital on the new organ of the Mill Valley First Baptist Church is scheduled for tomorrow night at 7:30, preceding the regular evening worship service.

The guest recitalist will be John C. Holtz, Jr. of White Plains, N. Y.

Holtz has flown to the West Coast especially for tomorrow night's program.

He is a University of West Virginia graduate who while attending college was director of music at Christ Episcopal Church at Fairmont, W. Va.

He has studied under such organists as Dr. Clyde English and Claire Coci. And at present he is director of music and organ for St. Thomas Episcopal Church at Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Reverend Munroe is now pastor of the First Baptist Church at Oxnard.

Mrs. Victor Nelson, a former member and soloist at the Hub church, will sing tomorrow.

Clergyman's Ideal

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A conference of theologians, psychiatrists, social scientists and ministers of various denominations at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here have agreed on the ideal prototype for clergymen to imitate in their work: Jesus of Nazareth.

DOCTOR TO SPEAK

India School Is Subject For Service

The Vellore Christian Medical School and Hospital at Vellore in southern India will be the subject of tomorrow's morning service at the Mill Valley Community Church.

Dr. Gertrude Flint-Jones, who served as a visiting professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the interdenominational medical center, will deliver the address.

The world service committee is in charge of the service.

The Vellore center is among the organizations supported by the membership of the Mill Valley church. It was founded in 1900 and has grown from a one-room dispensary to one of the best medical colleges in Asia. It serves students from all parts of India, Ceylon, and Burma.

Today Vellore takes its hospital facilities to the patients, operating a mobile clinic which provides roadside medical care to villagers within a 50-mile radius of the 470-bed hospital.

Fall Festival Plans Made

Home-cooked food and delicatessen booths will be featured at the ninth annual Fall Festival of St. Francis' Episcopal Mission, Novato, Sept. 19.

The booths will be located in the Sunday school room adjoining the church.

Besides candy, cake and cookie booths, there will be booths under Mrs. Joseph Wright and Mrs. Robert Kaler featuring such delicatessen and home-cooked foods as stuffed cabbage rolls, tamale pie, pineapple salad, curried rice, and huevos rancheros.

Clergyman Backs Birth Control

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Lutheran clergyman says that planned parenthood is "just good Christian common sense."

Writing in a church youth organ, Luther Life, he said indiscriminate procreation is "A blight, not a blessing."

But many Christians, he added, have "stored up unnecessary guilt feelings" about birth control.

Prof To Preach

Dr. J. Hudson Ballard, professor emeritus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary, will preach in the Novato Presbyterian Church at both services tomorrow morning.

Giants Rebound To Beat Dodgers, 5-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Willie Mays was jubilant, Sam Jones was hardly sad at all and the San Francisco Giants were rejuvenated today by a 5-0 victory over the Dodgers that put them three games ahead in the National League pennant race.

"We're leading the league," shouted Bill Rigney above the tumult of the Giant dressing room last night. "We can't afford to be tired."

"Now we can't go out of here except in first place," he declared.

There was nothing listless about the way the Giants disposed of the Dodgers before a disappointed crowd of 66,068 in the Coliseum last night.

DRYSDALE CHASED

Don Drysdale, the Dodger ace, lasted only 1⅔ innings and gave up all the Giant runs. The payoff was a three-run homer by Mays in the second inning.

The two teams take today off because of an exhibition football game at the Coliseum. But they'll resume warfare tomorrow afternoon when Johnny Antonelli, 18-7, takes the mound for the Giants against Larry Sherry, 4-2, the sensational Los Angeles rookie.

Rigney, looking ahead to Monday, will have Jack Sanford ready to go against Sandy Koufax, Roger Craig, or Drysdale.

Jones, who just missed a no-hitter here several weeks ago, got all kinds of help from Mays and Willie Kirkland in the field last night in posting his 17th win. He also came through with some strikeout work in the clutch, fanning 11 Dodgers.

"They played great, didn't they," asked Rigney after the game. The Giants had dropped three in a row, including a doubleheader to Philadelphia on Thursday, and presumably were tired. Los Angeles entered the set after two days of rest.

But it was San Francisco that looked fresh, scoring twice in the first inning when Mays, rookie sensation Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda doubled in consecutive order. A double by Ed Bressoud and a walk to Jones preceded Mays' 23rd homer into the left field seats in the second.

Willie, who hits in the coliseum with great fondness and success, also collected a single to go three for four. McCovey had two hits before Craig hit him with a pitched ball in the seventh.

NOT SERIOUS

Rigney said an examination showed McCovey was not hurt seriously and would be ready to play again tomorrow.

The Dodgers loaded the bases in the first inning against Jones on singles by Jim Gilliam, Duke Snider and Gil Hodges.

Rigney "didn't even think of taking Jones out—then or at any time." The decision proved a wise one, as Jones got Charlie Neal to fly out for the final out of the first inning. He was in trouble at other times, but a timely fielding play or strikeout, plus good control, saved him.

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers said Drysdale "looked like he had real good stuff.

"You couldn't tell about the curve from the side, but his fast ball looked fast."

He observed somewhat wryly that Jones was the "best right-hander" the Dodgers have faced this season. The former Cardinal has beaten the Dodgers in three of his five starts, losing the other occasions by one run.

KOUFAX MONDAY

Alston said he would use Koufax Monday unless he had to pitch him in relief tomorrow. Then Craig or Drysdale would get the assignment Monday night.

The game was the first of 18 at home for the Dodgers.

In other National League games, third-place Milwaukee, 3½ games behind, beat Chicago 9-3 as Lew Burdette won his 18th, Pittsburgh rapped Philadelphia 9-0 behind Vern Law's five-hitter, and St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 3-2.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox increased their lead over Cleveland by beating the Indians 7-3 on Sherm Lollar's three-run homer in the seventh which hit the glove of Minnie Minoso and bounced over the fence.

The New York Yankees beat Washington 4-0, Detroit won over Kansas City 6-5, and Boston beat Baltimore 6-4.

Moonlight Sail Is Scheduled For Tonight

By ALFRED MATSON

To satisfy the many sailors who enjoy the eerie qualities of night racing the San Francisco Yacht Club again programmed its tongue twisting oddity, the Midnight Moonlight Maritime Marathon, for this weekend.

Besides the nocturnal angle the race features the unusual in the system of handicapping: The entries will be handicapped at the start rather than at the finish. A highly interesting departure. The first boat to finish will, naturally, be the winner.

The start will be off Knox buoy, a beat to Crissy followed by a run and reach down to Islais Creek buoy. Next will be the long leg to No. 3 channel marker in San Pablo Bay and then the chilly beat back home to the finish line off the NWP docks in Tiburon.

All starts will be tonight and any boat still on the high seas at 8 a.m. tomorrow will garner naught for his troubles save the experience and wet feet; that hour marks the deadline for finishing.

We would be remiss if we neglected to mention that the clubhouse will be open until 3 a.m and will provide a spot of coffee for the weary sailors who reach port ere that hour.

On the subject of being remiss may it be said that we were culpable of the prize boo boo in last Monday's column for failing to report Jim Enzenperger's outstanding victory in the Al. Adams Perpetual Trophy race at San Pedro Aug. 16. There were 7 entries with Jim of Sausalito Y. C. the lone representative from the Bay Area, the others were from six of the leading clubs of southern California. But the combination of Enzenperger, Robin Hobart as crew and the Frenzy was just a bit too good for the competition.

The beautiful trophy, a glass encased sailing ship, in consequence was among Enzenperger's gear on the homeward trek.

U.S. Team Jumps To Early Lead In Games

CHICAGO (UPI) — The United States, off to a flying start, expected to pick up at last five more gold medals today in the Pan American games.

It won three of the five gold medals in the first day's competition yesterday, including one in what will go down in track and field history as one of the most confused decisions ever. It cost world record holder Harold Connolly the hammer throw championship.

Connolly first was awarded the crown, with a record throw of 195 feet 11½ inches. But he had left the arena before it was announced that a remeasurement slashed ¼ inch from his throw and that international rules ignored distances under a half inch on distances over 100 feet, thus reducing his toss to 195 feet 11 inches.

RULE BOOK WINS

This distance tied runner-up Albert Hall of the United States, and Hall, more than an hour after his last throw, was declared the gold medal winner because his second best throw was 192 feet 4½ inches while Connolly's next best was 191 feet 5 inches, in accordance with international rules.

There was no measurement in the other gold medals. Charlie Dumas, another U.S. star, grabbed the high jump crown with a record leap of 6 feet 10½ inches. Charles Vinci Jr. retained the bantamweight weight lifting crown with 717 pounds, with a world record lift of 243 pounds in the press.

Form was upset in the women's javelin throw. Marlene Ahrens, a statuesque 26-year-old mother of two children from Chile, twirled to the championship with a throw of 148 feet 10½ inches on her last try.

The fifth gold medal went to Argentine Oswaldo Suarez, a wire-to-wire winner in the 10,000 meter run with another Pan American record, :30:17.2, in another race marked by confusion. Results of the finish behind Suarez were held up for 30 minutes before judges agreed their initial decisions stood up.

The United States gold medal record today should be better. Don Bragg, Penns Grove, N.J., Ron Morris, Burbank, Calif., and James Graham, Tulsa, Okla., were the trio to beat in the pole vault. Josh Culbreath, Norristown, Pa., Richard Howard, Los Angeles, and Clifton Cushman, Grand Forks, N.D., had the three best times in the trials of the 400 meter hurdles and should finish one-two-three.

The women's 60 meter dash also stacked up as potential one-two-three U.S. lineup. Barbara Jones, Nashville, Tenn., Martha Hudson, McRue, Ga., and Isabelle Daniels, Jakin, Ga., boasted the best times of the semi-finals fields. But a lithe Panama sprinter, Carlotta Gooden, could upset. She was clocked in Pan American record time of :07.4 in the trials. If her slower speed in the semi-finals was due to overwork, a single race today might key her to victory. If the U.S. runners were coasting in their trials, she might run out of medal position.

FAVORITE

Another United States gold medal should go to Isacc Berger, Hollywood, Calif., in the featherweight weight lifting. Berger is the 1956 Olympic champion, and he might not win easily, since Panama's Carlos Chavez, the 1955 Pan American winner, is in the field. But Berger should win.

In today's other pair of gold medal events, one seemed sure to go to Adhemar de Silva, of Brazil, twice the Olympic and twice the Pan American hop step jump champion, with the U.S. stars, Herman Stokes, Los Angeles, and Ira Davis, Philadelphia, scrapping to finish second or third. De Silva is a potential 53-foot jumper and the United States pair, at best, might go 51 feet.

Mill Valley Golf

Mrs. Lynn Sumpter shot an 82-21—61 for low net honors in the medal play tournament yesterday at the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club.

Mrs. John Kobil placed second with an 86-24—62, and Mrs. Gary Conzelman with a 102-36—66 was third.

Mrs. Helen Prydz of the Mill Valley Club placed first in Class B in the Sonoma Women's Golf Club eclectic tournament held Thursday and yesterday. Mrs. W. B. Smillie placed second in Class C.

Baseball Tomorrow

The VFW Post 3570 baseball team composed of former Marin high school athletes will meet the Gino Benedetti nine of San Francisco at 2 p.m. tomorrow at San Rafael's Albert Field. Tom Leps, ex-Redwood High star, is expected to pitch for the VFW.

Doubles Today Key To Davis Cup Outcome

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Moody Alex Olmedo, upset in his first singles test, vowed to come out fighting for the United States Davis Cup team today in its crucial doubles match against Australia in the challenge round.

With the best-of-five championship series tied at 1-1, Olmedo teamed with 18-year-old Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis against Australia's Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson, the Wimbledon and U.S. doubles titleholders.

Undisturbed by his four-set trouncing by Fraser yesterday —and with a "you can't win 'em all" attitude—the 23-year-old Olmedo said, "Butch and I are very keen about the doubles. I'll do better today."

U.S. captain Perry Jones of Los Angeles, who earlier predicted a 5-0 sweep for the Americans, flatly predicted his tandem would lick the Aussies in doubles and avenge their five-set defeat by Fraser-Emerson in the recent U.S. doubles final.

Big Barry MacKay, an Air Force enlisted man from Dayton, O., put the Yanks back into contention yesterday by walloping 21-year-old Rod Laver, 7-5, 6-4, 6-1, after Fraser and his brutal service had downed the uninspired Olmedo, 8-6, 6-8, 6-4, 8-6.

Bus To 49er Game

Seats are still available on the Greyhound bus which leaves the Dugout at 821 B street, San Rafael, tomorrow at noon for the 49er-Cleveland game in Kezar Stadium, according to Jim McKee, owner of the Dugout.

Seats for the game tours, which the Dugout sponsors for each 49er home game, are on the 30-yard line. The bus will return to San Rafael at the end of the customary cliff-hanging fourth quarter.

Fullmer Knocks Basilio Out, Eyes Rematch Or Robinson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gene Fullmer wants Carmen Basilio to get another crack at the NBA middleweight title which Fullmer won last night by stopping the New York onion farmer in the 14th round.

The nationally televised fight in the Cow Palace was a bruiser, but the underdog Fullmer led all the way.

When it was over, the Mormon Sunday school teacher from West Jordan, Utah, said Basilio had earned a rematch with his courageous effort. Gene's eyes were swollen and nearly closed, Basilio looked even worse.

Basilio, his hands dipped in ice buckets, was too tired to talk about anything, let alone another fight.

TOUGHEST

"It was my toughest fight," said the 28-year-old Fullmer, who previously had won and lost in title fights with Ray Robinson. Basilio, 32, had a similar history against Robinson, who is recognized now as the middleweight champ in only New York and Massachusetts.

It was also Fullmer's biggest payday—$80,595 from 25 per cent of the $122,380 net gate and the same percentage from $175,000 TV money. Basilio, ranked above Fullmer, got 35 per cent—$112,833.

The National Boxing Assn. stripped Robinson of his title May 4 for failure to defend within a year. In sanctioning this fight, it told the winner to meet the association's No. 1 challenger within 90 days.

That foe will be chosen next week. Fullmer said he thinks it should be Basilio. But if it is Robinson, or perhaps Spider Webb, well, that's OK too, he said.

GENE'S TERMS

But Fullmer made it plain Robinson would have to fight under Gene's terms.

"When I fought Robinson the first time," Fullmer said, "I only got 12½ per cent of the gate and none of the TV money. If Robinson wants those terms I'll be happy to have him."

Fullmer, heavier by 3½ pounds at 159½, went after Basilio from the start, scoring with stinging left jabs followed by stiff rights.

Gene had the reputation of a mauler, but against Basilio he boxed and it paid off in his becoming the first fighter to stop the Chittenango, N.Y. scrapper who once also held the welterweight crown.

In the eighth, Fullmer buckled Basilio's knees with a pounding overhand right to the head. That brought a roar from the 10,937 in the Cow Palace and marked the beginning of the end.

KNOCKDOWN

A right to the temple sent Carmen flying into the ropes in the 14th. Although he didn't hit the canvas, his feet went out from under him, and it was scored as a knockdown under California rules.

John De John, Basilio's co-manager, yelled from the second row at Basilio's corner to stop the battle as Fullmer waded in. The fight ended with only 39 seconds elapsed. Under California rules, it goes into the record books as a knockout.

De John and Joe Netro, the other co-manager, are under investigation in New York and did not apply for licenses to manage in this state.

All the officials had Fullmer ahead. Referee Jack Downey saw it 128-119 under the 10-point must system which allots 10 points to the winner of a round and nine or less to the loser. Judge Jack Silver had it 125-121 and Judge Fred Bottaro 129-121. The Associated Press favored Fullmer 128-123.

Schoendienst To Return Next Tuesday

CHICAGO (AP) — The Redhead's coming back, but where will the Braves put him?

Possibly on the bench, if Bobby Avila, Red Schoendienst's latest and most satisfactory replacement at second base, continues his current hot hitting.

Doctors have told Schoendienst and his Milwaukee Braves teammates he may rejoin the team Tuesday. Tuberculosis has kept him out of the Braves' lineup all season.

Manager Fred Haney said yesterday he doesn't know how quickly Red will be ready to play, especially full time.

Avila, curly-haired lead-off man traded to Milwaukee from Boston July 21, has given the Braves' infield a tremendous boost since he joined the club. In the last four games, he has smacked out nine hits including three-for-five yesterday against the Chicago Cubs.

Haney hinted he may alternate the 36-year-old Schoendienst and Avila for a while.

Semi-Pros In Deciding Tilt

San Anselmo's Ongaro Plumbers and the Tiburon Pelicans meet tonight at Albert Field in San Rafael at 8 o'clock in the third and deciding tilt for the mythical semi-pro championship of Marin County.

Each team has won one game —the Pelicans winning 2 to 1 behind Mal Owens' two-run home run and Bobby DeRosa blanking them on a one-hitter last Sunday, 2 to 0.

Manager Ed Vigno of the Pelicans will undoubtedly call upon his fastballer Fred Thurman while manager Dom Boccabella will again depend upon the left-handed wizardry of Bobby DeRosa, who has won 11 games this season.

The Pelicans will play another game tomorrow, meeting the Sixth Army team from San Francisco's Presidio at 2:30 p.m. at Tiburon's Judge Field.

49ers In Last Exhibition Tilt In Kezar Bowl

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Coach Red Hickey continues his experiments with the rookies as his San Francisco 49ers play the winless Cleveland Browns tomorrow afternoon at Kezar Stadium.

Five newcomers were named to starting roles, with Dan James of Ohio State at center and Monte Clark from Southern Cal at tackle on the offensive unit.

Defenders include middle linebacker Bob Harrison from Oklahoma and Eddie Dove from Colorado at halfback posts.

Should an ankle injury suffered by James earlier in the week hamper his play, another rookie, Bill Korutz from Dayton will get the call.

After beating Washington and losing to Green Bay 24-17, the 49ers wind up their home pre-season schedule with the Cleveland tussle. Then they go away for three and come back to open the regular National Football League season on Sept. 27.

Coach Paul Brown of Cleveland also was doing some switching as he moved both Preston Carpenter and Bob Gain to end posts. Carpenter had been slated for a halfback role. Gain moved from left tackle to left end on the defensive unit.

Jim Ninowski, a second year man from Michigan State, gets the quarterback call with big fullback Jim Brown the No. 1 running threat.

Hickey sticks with his 49er offensive backfield—Y. A. Tittle engineering the attack with Jim Pace at half, Joe Perry at full and Hugh McElhenny at flanker.

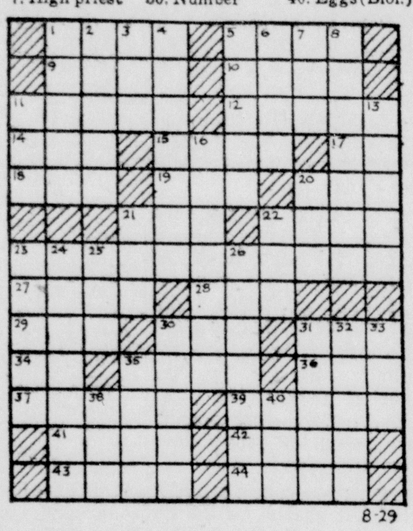
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints, each day the code letters are different.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Aug. 29, the 241st day of the year, with 124 more days in 1959.

The moon is approaching its new phase.

The morning star is Mercury.

The evening stars are Mars, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this date in history:

In 1809, the poet Oliver Wendell Holmes, the elder, was born.

In 1835, a boundary dispute between Ohio and Michigan was settled, with Ohio getting Toledo.

In 1852, Brigham Young signified approval of polygamy among Mormons.

In 1862, the Belgian poet Maurice Maeterlinck was born.

In 1901, temperance agitator Carrie Nation descended on the New York City saloon operated by John L. Sullivan. The former champion declined to see Mrs. Nation, and said, "Tell her I'm sick in bed."

In 1945, Marine hero Gregory "Pappy" Boyington was found alive in Japan, 20 months after he had disappeared in an air battle over New Guinea.

A thought for today: Maeterlinck said, "Old men have need to touch sometimes with their lips the brow of a woman or the cheek of a child, that they may believe again in the freshness of life."

Paul said he was playing at the home of Terry Dank, 11, at 15 Plaza DeMira about 5:30 p.m. They had been playing with Terry's pet rats. FESTIVAL DROPPED

New Yorkers March Against Delinquency

NEW YORK (AP) — An annual festival on the lower East Side last night was replaced by a solemn, candlelight procession through the humid streets in a mass appeal for an end to teenage gang warfare.

It was the date marking the Festival of St. Augustine, an occasion heretofore celebrated with street dancing and gaiety.

A statue of St. Augustine was borne aloft, but it was carried in a procession of clergymen and anxious mothers who distributed pamphlets urging people to pray for "peace on our streets."

A two-year gang truce, arranged by clergy and social workers of the area, terminated last Sunday with savage violence. After a battle between the Sportsmen and Forsyth gangs, Theresa Gee, 15, a Negro girl, lay dead, and Julio Rosario, 14, so badly wounded he died two days later. Six other youths were stabbed or shot.

The New York Times reported today that at least three dozen youth gang leaders had been persuaded to quit the lower East Side and take temporary jobs outside the city or attend camps.

Drunk Drivers Are Sentenced In Marin Court

Three drunken drivers were sentenced yesterday in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Harold J. Haley.

Marion Francis Pride, 25, of Richmond, who has a prior conviction, must serve five days in jail and pay $250 fine for his second offense. He loses his license for one year.

Miss Kathleen McIntyre, 36, San Francisco secretary, must pay $250 fine and remain on probation for 10 months. She must not drive for three months, and for the following three months may drive only for work and necessary family errands. She was caught last Monday on Highway 101 at Alto.

Terman W. Shoemaker, 55, of Campbell drew one year's probation and $300 fine. For the next six months, he may drive only for work. He was caught on Sir Francis Drake boulevard in San Anselmo last Monday.

Last Tuesday, Judge Richard M. Sims sentenced Lois P. Nouguier, 37, of 36 Grande Vista, Novato, to $200 fine and 90 days restricted driving. She was caught on Novato boulevard last Aug. 15.

MARCH AGAINST JUVENILE STRIFE — This solemn procession moved through lower East Side streets in New York City yesterday in a mass appeal for an end to juvenile gang warfare in the area. Some 250 mothers were joined by clergymen and members of St. Augustine's Episcopal Church. (AP Wirephoto)

Jack W. Bobrow, 762 42nd avenue, was ordered by the court to appear on Sept. 17 for sentencing.

The injured woman was Mrs. Marion Diller, Lagunitas road, Ross, who suffered serious facial injuries as a result of the accident.

Carpenter's Apprentice Questioned In Slaying

LIVERMORE (AP) — A carpenter's apprentice was booked today for questioning concerning the "execution" slaying on a lonely Nevada river bank of Larry Waters, 17, a gasoline station attendant.

Jimmie Ray Bowman, 18, was arrested last night at his mother's home in Ceres near Modesto.

"Take 'em, take 'em, take all you want . . . I didn't do it," he yelled at photographers while being booked in the Alameda County sheriff's substation here. Then he burst into tears.

Kenneth Mitchell, a captain in the sheriff's department who interrogated the youth for four hours, said Bowman produced several alibis for Wednesday, the day Waters left a Livermore gas station in company with an unidentified young motorist. The station owner said $42 was missing from a cash drawer. Mitchell said Bowman's accounts would be checked out.

Waters' body was found Thursday night among a jumble of rocks alongside the Truckee River 20 miles east of Reno. Police said he apparently had been marched 125 yards down from U.S. Highway 40 and then stood on the edge of the high bank while the killer shot him twice in the back of the head.

Marks on the wrists indicated Water's hands had been bound. Bowman offered no resistance when a posse closed in on him at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mabel Guissi. He was booked only for questioning concerning the kidnaping and robbery. Police said the slaying investigation is in the hands of Nevada authorities.

Bowman was placed in a lineup and viewed by Waters' employer, George Howard, and Howard's daughter, Mrs. Julia Duncan, 19, who lived behind the service station and happened to see Waters and his abductor before they left.

Softball Aids Polio Drive

A doubleheader evening of softball at Novato's McIntosh Field last night culminated two weeks of fund-raising by the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce for the emergency polio drive, with a net of more than $500.

The first softball contest was between the Hamilton Field WAF team and one from the Junior Chamber, each team donating its own pitcher and catcher to the other to avoid competitive mixing of the sexes. The chamber emerged winner by a 16-15 score.

In the second game the San Jose Welders took a 3-2 win from the Novato Merchants.

Last Weekend For Swimmers

The San Rafael High School swimming pool will be open tomorrow to recreational swimming for the last time this summer, according to the San Rafael Recreation and Park Department. Due to the time necessary for preparation of the pool for school use, it will not be open for the Labor Day weekend.

During the 10-week summer period some 16,000 persons swam at this pool under operation by the Recreation and Park Department.

GOVERNOR LEARNS ABOUT TROUT

Governor Edmund G. Brown went into the field to learn how state Fish and Game Department personnel go about moving trout from an over-populated stream to one whose fish supply is nearly depleted. Here Brown and Emil Kolodin, a district ranger, talk via radiophone to other members of a team engaged in the project to preserve the pure strain of the unique golden trout, California state fish. Balky Witness In Willis Trial Ordered Jailed For Contempt

Judge Thomas F. Keating sentenced an unwilling witness in the Willis abortion case to five days in the county jail yesterday afternoon for refusal to testify, comprising contempt of court.

The witness, John Barger, had been brought to court on a bench warrant after failing to appear under subpoena at 10 a.m. Repeatedly he had said he found a "personal moral issue" blocking him from testifying—and on this he finally stood without availing himself of the suggested ground that his testimony might tend to incriminate or degrade him.

Had he done so and still stood firm the outcome would have been the same, it was made clear.

Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich had ready-prepared an order he wished the court to issue provided the witness had stood on his constitutional grounds. This would have granted immunity and required testimony, failing which the witness would be in the same fix as resulted from his refusal to testify solely on personal grounds.

During part of the jury's usual time out for lunch there was legal discussion between the prosecution, Defense Attorney Leslie Gillen and the court.

Judge Keating said there was clear indication that if the witness had relevant testimony he must answer, but there was still a question of his grounds.

"This is a purely personal moral issue," said Barger. Asked if he hadn't talked to an attorney, Barger said he had and added:

"He said to go to jail, then when the trial was over borrow a dime from a trusty and he'd get me out."

The judge dryly remarked that "I might accommodate you" after further discussion in which Barger added: "I'm not afraid of any punishment for anything I've done—I have a clear conscience and wish to keep it that way."

Weissich said that Barger's grounds "are not recognized by the law" and Judge Keating found at last that it was "plain that you're not claiming self-incrimination." The judge added a final admonition: "You can be punished for refusal to testify" to which Barger did not respond.

The jury was called in and Weissich started a series of questions which were met with an immediate refusal to answer, whereas when first called during the morning Barger had responded to the preliminary questions. Asked whether he had made a statement to Donald E. Midyett, investigator for the district attorney's office, Barger said:

"I've told you I could not testify in this case. I refuse to testify on the grounds I have given the court."

He had previously said he was a close friend of the defendants, Dr. and Mrs. Jack E. Willis of Mill Valley.

"Very well," said Weissich, but immediately put another question as to whether the witness had had discussion with Dr. Willis.

"I have nothing to say, sir."

"Will the court order the witness to answer the question?" said Weissich.

Judge Keating said that the question was relevant and instructed the witness to answer under penalty of contempt.

Weissich started to ask about pregnancy of a woman friend of the witness and whether or not Dr. Willis had seen her, then asked: "Do you refuse to answer?"

"Yes, sir."

Judge Keating said that the witness had made clear his refusal to answer and indicated that further questioning seemed futile but Weissich said, "Each refusal is an additional act of contempt."

"I don't think we need take up the time of the court and jury with added contempts," said the court, adding that the witness was "perfectly frank" in his attitude.

He then ruled, "I hereby make order of imprisonment in the county jail for five days for contempt."

Weissich rested the case for the prosecution and after brief legal discussion Gillen rested for the defense. The court ordered that final arguments begin at once so they could be finished Tuesday with the case going to the jury that afternoon or Wednesday morning at latest.

Though Weissich said he found himself "somewhat unprepared for argument at this time" and without notes, he started his argument.

The prosecutor emphasized the point that, while some of the jurors had expressed misgivings concerning the law under which the Willises were indicted, that they were nonetheless sworn to uphold the law.

"There is no issue in this case," Weissich said, "of whether it was necessary to operate to preserve the life of any woman involved. Dr. Willis conceded on the stand that in no case was it necessary. If a woman was in good health, the law presumes it was not necessary to preserve her life."

He pointed out that "you have heard from 10 women, each one of whom has sworn under oath that Dr. Willis did something that resulted in termination of a pregnancy."

The defense, he said, has made "blanket denial that any abortions have been performed anywhere any time. To believe the defense you'd have to conclude that our witnesses were bald perjurers, liars."

"What would the witnesses have to gain through rank, brutal perjury?" asked Weissich. "Does this seem reasonable? Does it make any sense?"

He stressed that the essence of the charge lies in the intent to commit abortion—that "it is legally possible for anybody to use an instrument even on a non-pregnant woman and commit the crime of abortion, if the abortionist thinks the woman is pregnant."

He also said it was not necessary for the victim of an abortion to be precise in recollection of the exact day, nor need the medical records be correct—"it is too much to expect that they should show that on such and such a day the doctor caused an abortion."

With reference to Mrs. Willis, Weissich said there was no evidence that she committed any abortions but that the law finds a person equally guilty with the abortionist if the crime is "aided and abetted."

QUICK DRAW CONTEST CALLED OFF

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California State Fair, caught in a cross fire, has canceled its quick draw contest today.

Fair Manager Dudley T. Fortin announced public reaction had forced cancellation of the event set for Sept. 5-6.

It was supposed to find out who could get a pistol out of a holster fastest. Publicity called it both educational and entertaining.

Several recent accidents in such contests around the state aroused public criticism of the proposed statewide tournament, Fortin said.

The fair will refund the $5 entry fees received from about 300 prospective contestants.

Mill Valley Man Injured In Pileup

A three-car, rear-end pileup last night on the access road to Bridgeway boulevard from Highway 101 at Sausalito sent the driver of the third car to the hospital with minor cuts and possible head injuries.

Treated at Marin General Hospital at 11:30 p.m. was Thomas Joseph Shimmin, 29, of 246 Morning Sun avenue, Mill Valley. His condition was reported as good this morning by hospital attendants.

The other two drivers, in order of their appearance, were Phillip Charles Hagemann, 38, of Santa Rosa, and Sidney Olive Stephens, of Fort Barry.

Three California Highway Patrol cars were at the scene, two of which were manned by off-duty officers on their way home.

Information Officer At HAFB Retires

Maj. Robert F. Merritt of Novato, who has been director of information for Western Air Defense Force Headquarters at Hamilton Air Force Base for the past four and one-half years, has been retired from the Air Force in the rank of lieutenant colonel.

The officer was undergoing treatment at Fitzsimons Army Hospital when his retirement became effective. He returned to his home at 1114 Court road this week, where he resides with his wife and daughter, Natalie.

Merritt had been on active duty since 1942 and had previously served three years in the Naval Reserve program.

He served as command public information officer with the 8th Air Force and the 1st Air Division in the Pacific area during World War II and with the 20th Air Force in Korea during the Korean War.

Merritt is active in the Novato Presbyterian Church, holding the offices of ordained elder, and chairman of the board of trustees and president of the Open Door Club. He is a Mason and a member of the Novato Kiwanis and Toastmaster clubs.

Father Killed Son

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The father of a six-year-old boy missing for 13 days and feared kidnaped confessed that he killed the boy and buried him in a shallow grave near his home, authorities said yesterday.

They said Robert Monroe, 30, broke down during a lie detector test and told them he had beaten the boy with a stick as a punishment Aug. 12. He then led them to the two-foot deep grave. Nothing was left but the skeleton.

CLOSES SEASON

Music Chest Presents S.F. Ballet

The San Francisco Ballet tomorrow will bring to a close the current season of the Marin Music Chest.

The gates to Forest Meadows at Dominican College will open at 6:30 p.m., and the performance will start at 8:30 p.m.

The ballet will include "Sinfonia," to music by Boccherini, Von Suppe and Tschaikowsky, a new presentation.

Directing will be Earl Bernard Murray, and dancers will include Sally Bailey, Nancy Johnson, Richard Carter and Jocelyn Vollmar.

Those attending have been urged to bring car blankets and flashlights.

Brown Answers Jordan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown claims that Secretary of State Frank Jordon's complaints about a closed meeting on state government reorganization were premature.

Brown said yesterday that "no final decision has been reached" on closing the Sept. 11 and 12 meetings to the press. He said he had only speculated in press conferences that this might happen.

Jordan wrote a protest yesterday.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Bernstein Cheered

LENINGRAD, USSR (UPI) — An audience of 2,200 including 800 standees cheered and applauded conductor Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic Orchestra at the Bolshoi Philharmonic Hall last night.

The audience summoned Bernstein and the orchestra back for 32 minutes of applause and three encores in the New Yorkers' first of six concerts in Leningrad.

Nikita Visit Rapped

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev should be ignored on his trip to the United States, says the national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Except for government officials who have to talk to him, we all ought to just ignore Khrushchev," John W. Mahan, 35, an ex-Marine Corps pilot, told a news conference yesterday.

X-15 Trouble Minor

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (UPI)—Test pilot Scott Crossfield said today "a minor plumbing disorder" in the fuel system forced the postponement of the first powered flight of the X15 manned space ship.

"Yes," he said, "it was something in the plumbing system. We couldn't take any chances."

Nuclear Sub Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A scientific group has warned that many nations soon will be able to build nuclear submarines which could launch "a devastating missile attack against cities hundreds and even thousands of miles from the seacoast."

"The probability will become steadily greater in the future," the scientists said, "that an international mischief-maker will be able with impunity to initiate a nuclear holocaust."

In all likelihood, they said, the attacking submarine would escape without even being identified, and the attacked nation would not know who hit it.

Suit Hits Probers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A federal court has been asked to prohibit the House UnAmerican Activities Committee from releasing to local school boards committee reports on two school teachers.

A suit was filed yesterday by Irma Tuominen, first grade and kindergarten teacher in South San Francisco, and by Evelyn Schoenfield, Berkeley, also an elementary school teacher.

Both were listed by the congressional committee as witnesses in a planned House committee hearing in San Francisco. The hearings into asserted Communist influence on teachers has been called off.

County Eyes Mine

MERCED (AP)—Merced County wants a share of an Alaskan mining claim an Air Force sergeant says was left to him by a prospector's widow.

Kenneth L. Riggs, county administrator, filed a petition yesterday asking that the property of the late Mrs. Cora Dinsmore be surrendered to the welfare department. He said Mrs. Dinsmore and her husband, James, received more than $20,000 in old age assistance benefits between 1939 and 1958.

T/Sgt. Thomas Howlett, a jet bomber tail gunner at nearby Castle Air Force Base, had estimated the claim to a cinnabar mercury deposit at being worth potentially 40 million dollars.

Veto Angers Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outraged cries on Capitol Hill, evoked by veto of the water projects bill, signalled a serious threat today to President Eisenhower's record of never having a veto overridden.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said an attempt would be made in the House Wednesday to override the veto of the $1,206,000,000 bill.

Reaction to news of the veto Friday was quick and bitter.

Rep. Neal Smith (D-Iowa) said Eisenhower "spends time at golf courses but wants no lakes for common folks."

Paris To Fete Ike

PARIS (AP) — The Paris Municipal Council in a rare gesture has called on Parisians to celebrate the arrival of President Eisenhower Sept. 2.

Close Vote Is Predicted In Labor Bill Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both sides predicted today a close vote in next week's Senate floor showdown on the three major points in disagreement on the labor regulation bill.

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), supporting a move for the Senate to instruct its conferees to give in to the House on the points, estimated his side would have 45 to 55 votes. A majority of the full Senate is 51.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) offering an alternative plan to accept the House language in part but with some Senate provisos, said he was hopeful of victory.

The Senate floor fight was set yesterday when the Senate-House conferees finished their ninth day of intensive sessions on the complex legislation.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, one of the conferees, announced he believed a deadlock had been reached on the three points and that he was ready to go back to the Senate floor.

Dirksen filed a resolution to instruct the Senate conferees to accept the House provisions on no man's land, secondary boycotts and organizational picketing.

Kennedy said he would have preferred to wait until Monday before taking this step, but he filed a substitute resolution.

His substitute would put the Senate on record in favor of compromise proposals on the deadlocked sections. These were offered earlier this week by the four Senate Democrats on the conference.

The resolutions are scheduled to be debated starting Monday, with voting to begin perhaps on Tuesday.

The conferees already have agreed on the first six titles of the bill dealing with union financial operations, elections and other internal matters.

The controversy is over the seventh and final title covering Taft-Hartley law changes. Even here, several points have been settled.

It comes from the name of a confederacy of professional murders, who terrorized India for 700 years. FIDDLE-NECK (Amsinckia sp.)—The rough, bristly Fiddleneck is an interesting annual plant bearing flowers on a one sided coiled spike which uncoils as flowering proceeds. The individual orange blossoms, ⅓ to ⅔ in. long, are 5 lobed and funnel shaped. The erect, 1 to 2 ft. high plant bears long, narrow leaves. Although the flowers are small, they grow in such masses on open ground that they make a striking effect. A closely related, smaller plant is the Popcorn Flower, sometimes called White Forget-me-not. From February to May sheets of it are found on grassy hills. (From "Out-of-Doors in Marin" copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)

Look Before You Leap, They Say But The Gap May Close By Then

My wife says it's because I have a one track mind, but I don't think so. I'll have you know I've got a lot of important matters on my mind.

She jumps into commitments she sometimes wishes she hadn't made. With me it's exactly the opposite. I have to view things from all angles, turn them over in my mind, look for the booby trap—and deliberate.

So is it my fault if I make decisions too late? It just happens that I hate to be rushed and find myself behind the eight ball.

An admirable characteristic, she concedes with some sarcasm, but you can carry a think like that too far. Theatre tickets, for instance. . . .

"There's a good comedy opening at the Curran next week," she'll say. "Why don't you drop by and get seats for the 15th? It falls on a Saturday."

"That's a long way off," I protest. "Maybe we'll be tied up going out for dinner or something."

"Okay — the 14th then. We'll go out for dinner on the 15th."

"Wait a minute—I didn't say we'd positively go out for dinner. I'll look into it," I promise.

By the time I do there aren't any seats for the 14th, 15th, or any other night. It's a sell-out for the entire run. Our friends are still laughing about it, but we don't know what the joke is.

Then there was this typewriter. . . .

It was for sale in a second hand store for $10. It looked like a good machine so I went in, typed on it, turned it upside down and examined it from top to bottom.

"I dunno," I said to the girl. "I'll think about it."

Everyday for two weeks I passed by the place and saw it in the window. It still looked like a good buy. Finally I made my decision and went in to get it.

"Oh, I'm sorry," the clerk said. "That man going out the door just bought it. He's picking it up tonight."

About a year ago Purity grocery stores had a sales promotion deal in which they offered the large New Century dictionary in 15 sections for 89c apiece. The first section was two-bits to get you started. The idea was that as you bought your groceries you picked up a section maybe once a week or every two weeks and when you had all 15 you got a binder to put them in.

"You're always moaning about the dictionaries we have being too small," my wife said. "Why don't you start buying one of these? The way food prices are, 89c won't make much difference one way or the other."

"Might be a good idea," I agreed cautiously. "You never can tell, though. I'll give it some thought."

I really had to think that one out. After ten months with our modest sized syllabi all failing miserably on such words as dorty, geostrophic, pogonip and rudesby I decided to be reckless and take on the sectional deal.

One day I threw down a quarter for Section I, and in rapid succession acquired Sections II through V. By the time I came around for VI I was told the entire project had been abandoned.

"We had a sign up," the clerk said, "and advised everyone to complete their sets. After all, we had the offer open for a year."

"Yeah," I replied unhappily, "but I needed some time to consider it."

A friend to whom I told the story was not the least bit sympathetic.

"Your wife is too easy on you," he said. "She should have applied sudden and external pressure to the rear and south of your xiphisternum."

How should I know what it means?

My five part compendium only goes from A to III.

'As A Marin Supervisor You Lead'

An Engineer, Bill Wright Likes To Apply Knowledge To Problems

By ROBERT K. NEWCOMB

"The compelling thing to an engineer is creating things and developing natural resources—a love of technical activity and applying technical knowledge to everyday problems."

With that, William Q. Wright Jr. of Novato may have explained why it is he has followed in the engineering footsteps of his father, and perhaps why his three sons are following in his.

But it serves only as a partial answer to the question of what it is that motivates the man in other less scientific pursuits—why he chose to become a world traveler, why he drives a small foreign sports car and why he loves politics and once served as a Marin County supervisor.

It would be oversimplification to sum it up in the single word "fun." But that would be getting close to the truth.

"Bill," as he is hailed by his fellow Novato Rotarians and even by his sons, reveals in manner and speech that it is indeed fun—or more properly,a robust enjoyment of life —that makes him tick.

"You know there is more to a job than money alone," he commented. He was speaking in the relaxed atmosphere of his ranch home two miles north of downtown Novato and only a few feet from the rumbling traffic of Highway 101.

"When you create something—build something— it is a great thing."

It was more than the prospect of a high salary that helped him decide to take a job as senior water resources engineer and project manager of a project in Saudi Arabia from April, 1956 to June, 1958.

IT WAS, of course a challenging engineering job, but it was also the prospect of seeing a strange land and its people—"at close hand as few other foreigners are ever able to do in that country."

During his stay in Arabia, Wright took 2,500 colored pictures with a desire to absorb as much of the land's culture as he could. He did so between times when he was exploring for new sources of water—his engineering assignment with the Ralph M. Parsons Engineering Co. of Los Angeles, under contract with that kingdom.

"It is the most medieval, inaccessable, contradictory and frustrating place on earth," Wright has written as a preamble to public showings of his colored slides — "where the privileged few have everything and the poor sleep in the streets."

Wright was born in San Francisco Dec. 12, 1903. Two years later he moved with his father, then a mining engineer, and his mother to Sausalito. He has called Marin County his home ever since, attending Sausalito Grammar School and Tamalpais High School. He was graduated from Stanford University in mining engineering in 1925.

It was a year later, in France, where he had gone with his brother Phillip with plans to continue his studies, that the young Stanford graduate met Eleanor Wurtsbaugh — daughter of Mrs. D. W. Wurtsbaugh and the late Captain Wurtsbaugh of San Rafael and a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley. She was then touring Europe. "We met on a blind date," he recalls.

A YEAR LATER they were married in San Francisco. The collegiate rivalry of the two universities has never led to more than a good-humored choosing up of sides in the Wright home, with Mrs. Wright being alone in the minority.

"Actually," Wright triumphantly remarked, "we're a huge Stanford family." His father, W. Q. Wright Sr., his late brother Phillip and his sister, Janet (Mrs. Charles Glasgow) of Balboa, all graduated from Stanford, as did two of his three sons.

His brother died in a Japanese prison camp in Japan in 1942 at the age of 36. "It's a grim story," Wright said. "He had been working as a mining engineer in the Philippines and was commissioned a lieutenant in the Army Corps of Engineers before his capture.

"Later we learned he had walked 100 miles through the jungles with a refugee child on his shoulders in order to get to Manila where he was commissioned in the field," Wright remembers.

In 1927, then 24, Wright became engineer in charge of constructing the San Francisco Yacht Harbor after joining his father as a member of the Wright Corp.

A year after their wedding, the Wrights were back in Europe — this time in Madrid, where the fledgling engineer went to work for the Spanish government on public works projects throughout Spain. Work stopped after a year's time with the outbreak of the Spanish revolution, but he had tucked some valuable experience under his belt.

In 1929, he returned with his wife to Sausalito where he rejoined his father in engineering activities.

DURING THAT time he became involved in an intensive farming project of 10,000 acres, including cultivation of many crops. That experience was to prove valuable to him in his later role of combination engineer and rancher.

"My work in any given year since then has ranged from mining engineering and geophysics to agricultural pursuits. There has been this curious combination of swinging from engineering to farming and land reclamation activities."

After the yacht harbor project, Wright continued in engineering practice with his father for many years. "We did varied civil, mechanical and mining engineering, land reclamation, design and construction of pumping plants and many other things," he related.

Wright, a member of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering society at Stanford, also is a member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, and the American Geophysical Union. He is a registered mechanical engineer.

He is also a director of the Marin Conservation League and active in other civic groups.

In 1937, the Wrights, then with their three sons — William, born in Madrid in 1919; Foster (Frosty), born in 1932, and Larry, in 1933—moved to their present ranch home north of Novato. "It's just a converted hunters' duck club house," says Wright, "and the walls are about this thick." He squinted between two fingers.

The ranch has been cut down to about 250 acres from its original 500. About 35 acres directly across the highway from the Wright home are leased to the Novato Airport. Another 10 acres are leased by the Columbia Broadcasting System for a transmitter station and four 500-foot high towers.

The rest of the ranch is still devoted mainly to growing hay and grain, and until this year, the Wrights operated a seed processing mill there for 15 years.

WE'RE GETTING further away from agricultural pursuits and more into commercial development," Wright explained.

He and his three engineer sons are forming a family engineering partnership, together with W. Q. Wright Sr., now 80, who still is active as a civil engineer in Los Gatos. "It will be a family consulting engineering organization," Wright said.

All three sons have chosen the field of engineering independently and without pressure from their father. "It's funny how things go," smiled Wright. "Like father, like son, I guess, right down the line. We're all Republicans, too, and we've each come to it independently. We're just plain individualistic.

"Bill is now attending the University of Nevada, with plans to graduate next June in mining engineering," said Wright of his eldest son. Foster and Larry, since graduating from Stanford, have been gaining experience—Foster as an engineer with Peter Kiewit Co. in San Francisco, Larry as an engineer with the Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation District.

"It's the American way," he said. "The kids branch out on their own, and when they return it's of their own choice. As in any successful family business, you are first an associate with something to contribute to the big pot, and then, incidentally, you're a member of the family with a lot in common with each other.

"We're a bunch of nuts," he grinned, suddenly launching into a new subject. "We have three German Porsches in the family. I have one, Bill has another and Frosty has one. We got out for rallies. We just enjoy the fun of driving sports cars.

"FOR YEARS sports car enthusiasts were looked upon as odd-balls, but the craze is coming in — the fun of driving comes back when you have closer contact with the road.

"Eleanor and I put 35,000 miles on ours in the past year."

After the Saudi Arabia work, the husband and wife traveled in their tiny open car across Lebanon, Turkey and Greece with their son Larry, whom they met in Istanbul—"after he got out of the Army in Paris."

They then continued through most of Western Europe to Paris. From there, Wright and his wife continued on alone through England, Canada and across the United States, arriving home in Novato last September. Their son Larry returned home several months later.

Paris looked unchanged to the Wrights from the time they first met there.

About that city: "You get from it what you expect," said Wright. "It can be one of the lovliest, most dramatic places on earth.

"While we were there we stayed strictly away from other Americans — going mostly to the scroungy places. But in France it's virtually impossible to get a bad meal, even in the smallest cafe. The highest pride of the French is to cook well."

Wright, who was elected as one of the original directors of the North Marin Water District from the time of its formation in 1948 until 1952 and again in 1955, served on the county Board of Supervisors from November, 1952 to January, 1955. Of that service he says, "It was a terrific experience."

"I have always said that there are two experiences every man should have during his lifetime—one is marriage, the other is politics." He smiled as he said it.

"Politics," he offered, "has a common distasteful connotation, but politics is still the backbone of our country.

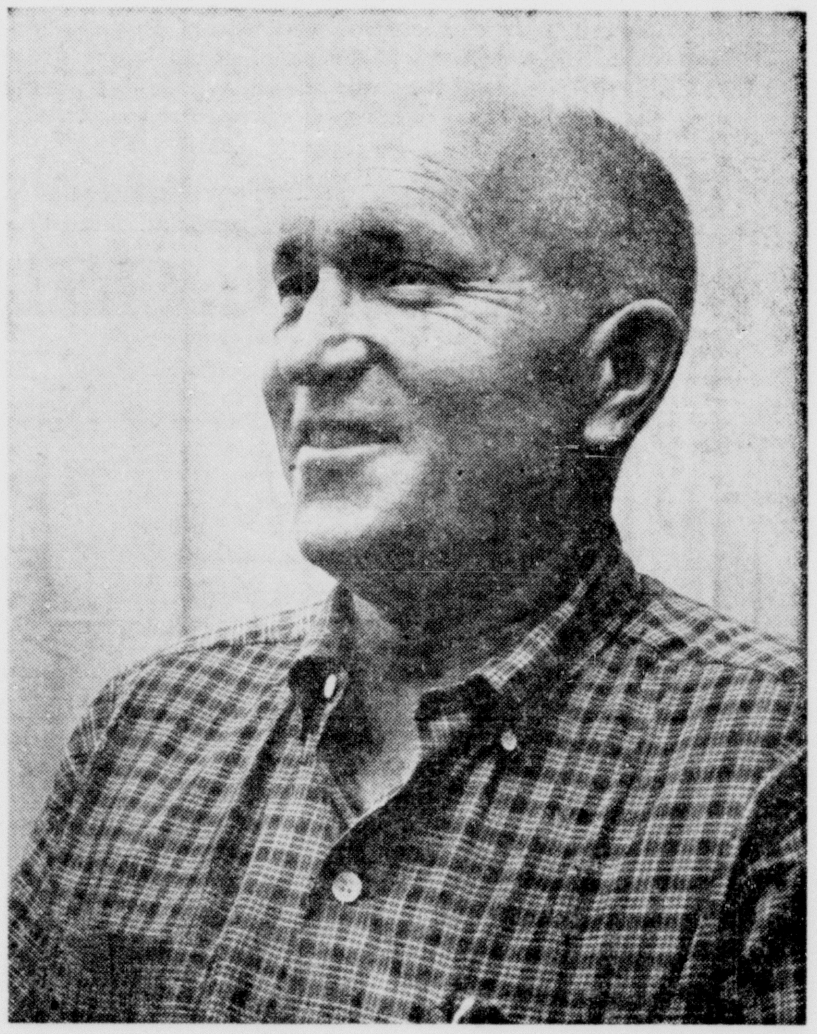
"Actually, in this country a politician is a man who knows how to work with others in order to further the public interest. He can be a completely dedicated man with enlightened self interest. But a selfish politician, sooner or later, will be thrown out of office."

YOU'VE GOT TO keep a high standard in front of you. Sometimes you've got to say 'No' and make people mad at you. Often, you must compromise. In engineering you can't compromise a design if it makes a structure unsafe. But in human dealing, you must be able to compromise to reach desirable ends."

"It's a sort of dedication. It's like a missionary hammering away at a remote place on the globe. When he loses interest in what he's doing, he should be replaced. The same is true of a politician.

"The supervisors sit as judges and as legislators — they're 'all things to all people.' As representatives, they do not always actually represent, because the people don't necessarily know what they want.

"People have opinions." He spoke earnestly. "But they usually don't have the facts or the time needed to study issues—until their vital interests are threatened.



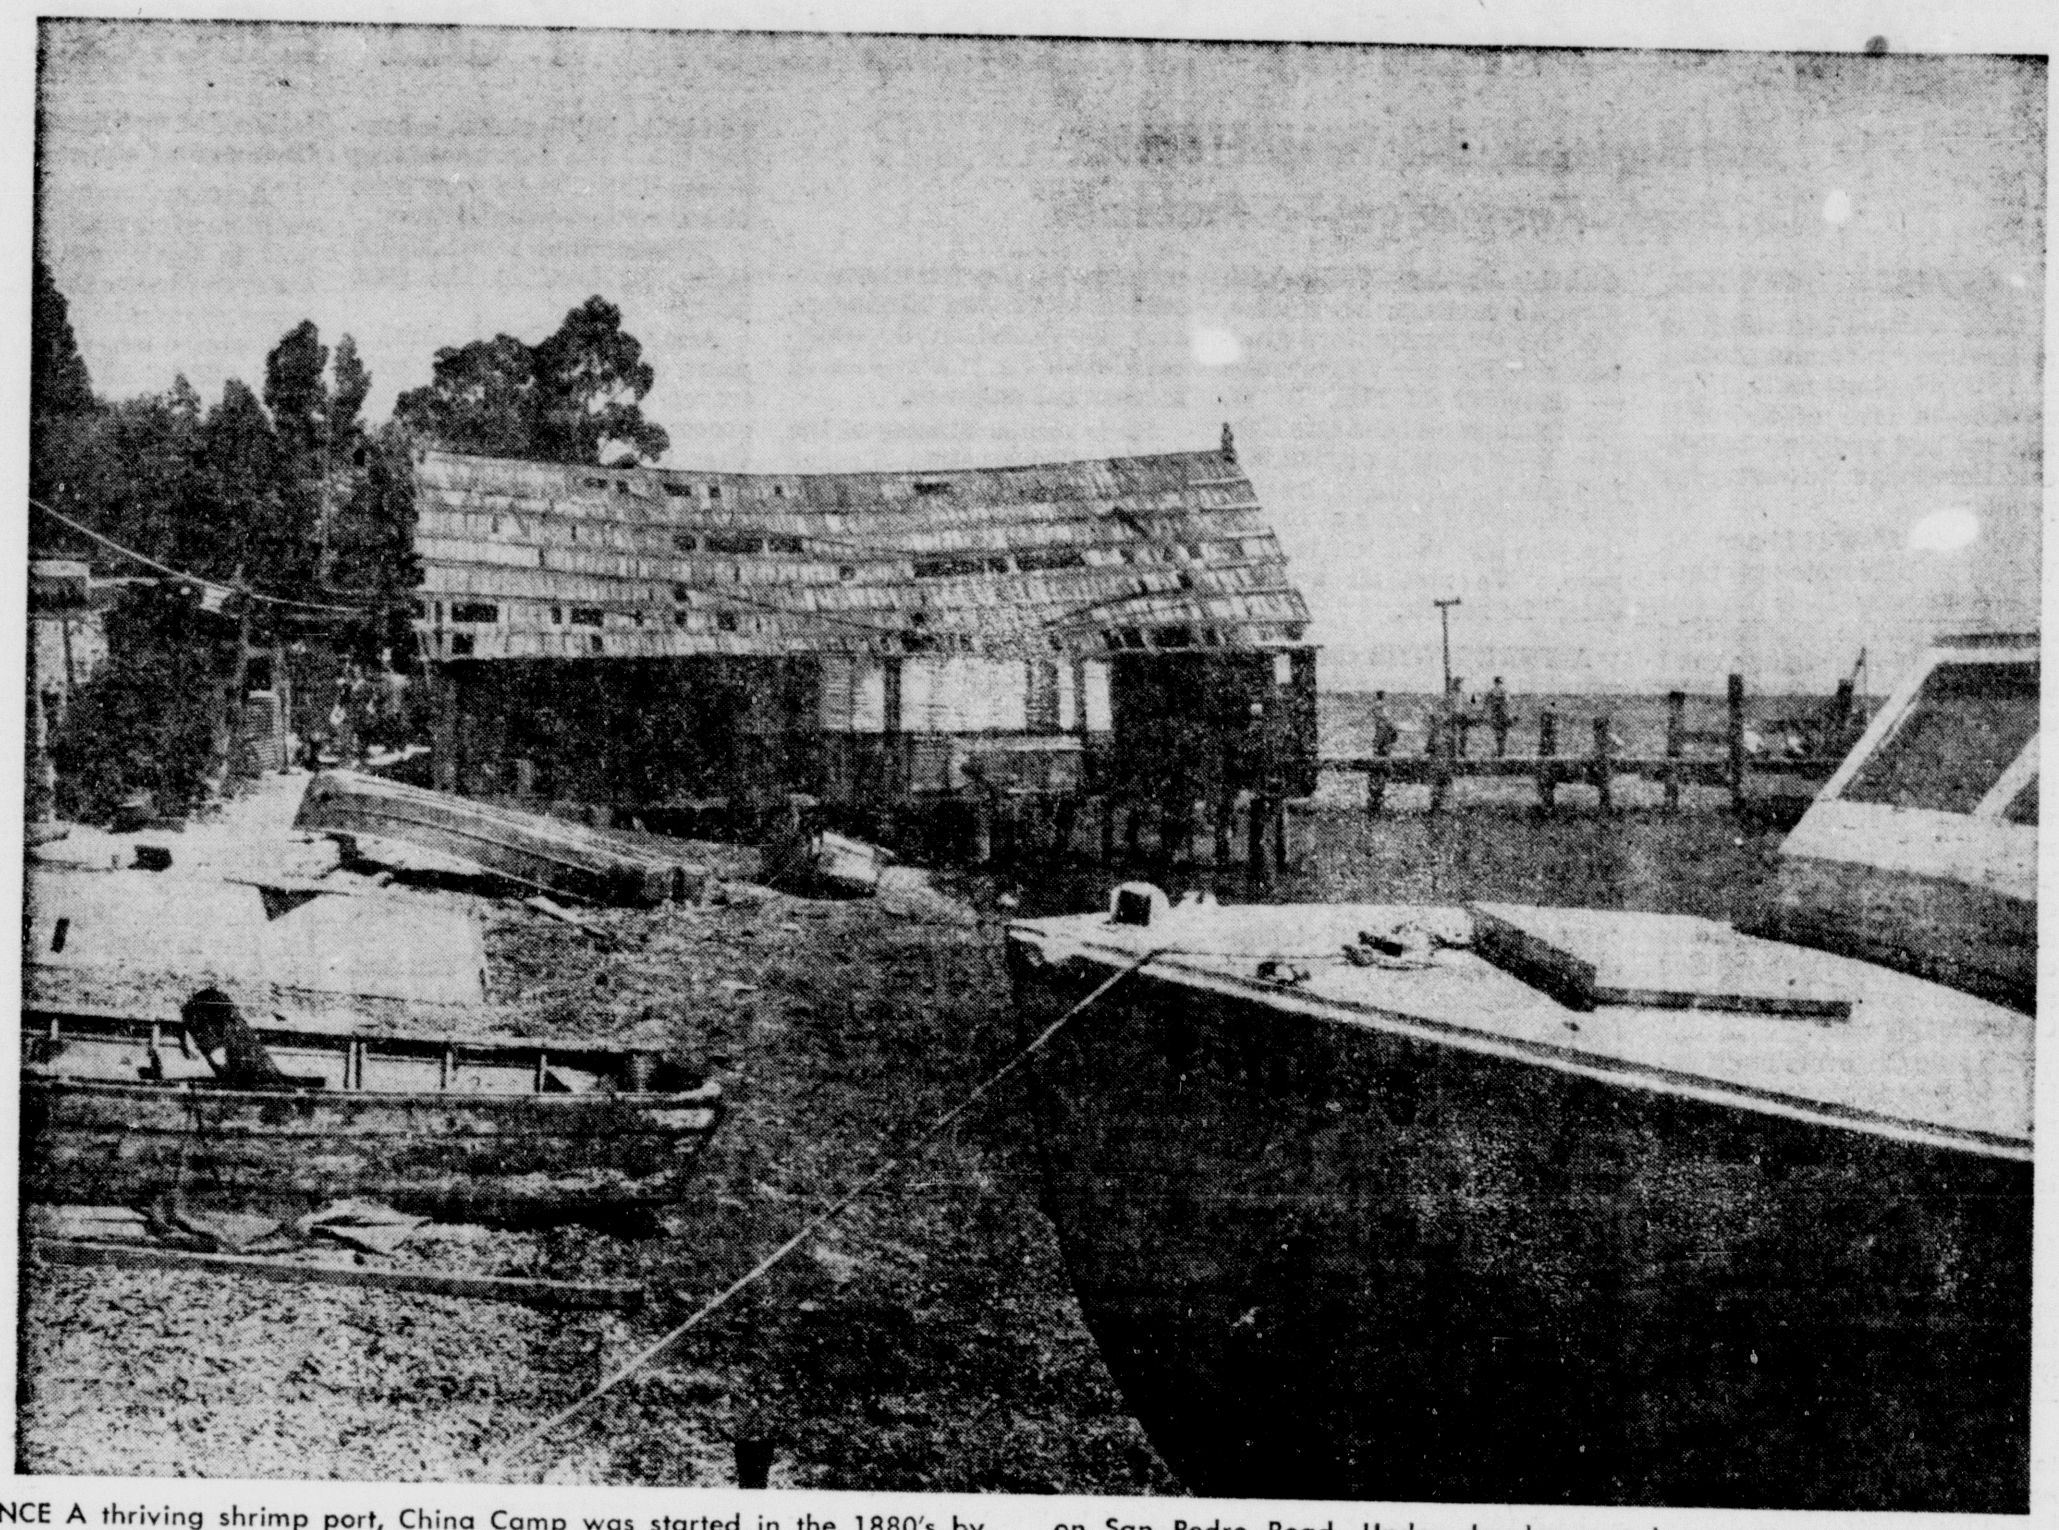
WILLIAM Q. WRIGHT JR. gets a robust enjoyment out of his life. "When you create something—build something—it is a great thing." (Independent-Journal photo)

"AS SUPERVISORS you lead, you don't follow — because the people generally do not care until you've gone too far the wrong way."

Does he think he will return to the politics he loves?

"I have no current plans," he smiled. "Only people who are retired or working for themselves have the time it demands. It's a big job.

"But I'd like to go back into it again someday," he confided, and his eyes twinkled—"When I'm old enough."



ONCE A thriving shrimp port, China Camp was started in the 1880's by Chinese who felt pressures of Oriental exclusion laws. At one time about 3,000 Chinese inhabited the small cove, which lies northeast of San Rafael on San Pedro Road. Under development by an Hawaiian corporation, $50,000 homes will rise on the hills above the cove. But meanwhile the camp lies weathering and unchanged. China Camp — Not Long To Live

Nearly Unchanged For Decades, Now Awaiting The Big Change

By DONALD G. DAVIS

A jet splits the air overhead, and shatters the peace of a quiet, warm and lazy afternoon.

Except for that ear-splitting noise, China Camp, nestled in a cove at the end of San Pedro Point, is pretty much as it has been for decades.

The makeshift, casually built construction has been eroded by wind and rain, but viewed from the highway above, the camp appears much as it did long ago.

THERE HAVE been times in the past when the camp was livelier, when shrimp by the hundreds of tons were hauled into its sheds before being taken to market. Fishermen by the scores have gathered there.

But China Camp, started in the 1880s by Chinese who felt the pressure of Oriental exclusion laws, is dying.

Some day, on the very spot where rotting pilings are sinking into the mudflats, there will rise posh homes. Some day a family will dine on frozen shrimp bought at the supermarket, perhaps unaware that the water beyond them once supplied hundreds of dinner tables with shrimp in a single day.

MRS. GRACE QUAN, widow of Henry Quan, who ran the camp for more than a quarter of a century until his death in 1950, might be called the matriarch of the cove.

She talks quietly, uses appropriately salty language and smokes big cigars.

China Camp is dying, and you can see it in Mrs. Quan's face. "We'll have to start all over again from scratch," she says sadly.

Constantly reaching for her lighter to keep her stogie going, she talked recently of how she and the other members of the Quan family, who help manage the camp, will have to move.

"WE DON'T OWN the property," she said: "We just rent it from month to month from the Latipac Corp., just like we did from the McNears."

Latipac Corp., operated by Chinn Ho, a wealthy Chinese businessman from Honolulu, owns thousands of acres on the point, and plans to build a "Riviera Marin" that will include China Camp.

"But nobody really knows what they are going to do," she said. "I, myself believe we'll be here two to three years yet.

"It's all on paper. They could say to get out tomorrow, I just don't know. They're working on a golf course now, and I think they plan some kind of resort here. But up on the hill the homes won't sell for less than $50,000.

"They're going to save the hills and the trees."

But the loss of China Camp is not the only things about change that saddens Mrs. Quan. The changing world, its advances grouped together under the label of "progress," disturbs her. She complains that today one can no longer "have chickens in the back yard."

SHE SAID Chinn Ho "has been here three or four times. He's a nice man to talk to. But when they want this place they'll take it." she said the Quan family doesn't plan to dismantle any of the buildings or try to salvage anything. "There's not much here," she said. "It wouldn't be worth it."

Business has dwindled from an operation that hired fisherment, to just a family operation. About two years ago, Mrs. Quan said, "the shrimp came to an end. They were killed off by pollution."

Nowadays, as in the years past, the family operates a snack bar and sells beer and rents boats to fishermen who fish the bay waters for bass.

But when the shrimp disappeared, activity at China Camp was sharply curtailed. Mrs. Quan said she believes that chemically treated sewage is responsible for the disappearance of shrimp. "The tide just doesn't take it all out," she said. "The mud used to be grey; now it's black." Oil, too, has cut down the shrimp population.

When Mrs. Quan spoke of the "Riviera Marin" development being two to three years away, she asked, "When are they going to get water? We once had wells, now we have to haul it in every other day."

The Quans use a torpedo-shaped tank to haul 315 gallons to the camp's water system.

"NOW WE HAVE hot and cold running water and showers and a pressure system," she said, "but we once ladled water from a bucket."

Mrs. Quan gives credit to her oldest son, Frank, for keeping the business alive. Frank, unmarried, lives at the camp with his mother. Also living there is Mrs. Quan's sister-in-law, Mrs. Alice Quan, and her daughter, Mrs. Georgette Bass.

Grace's other two sons, Milton and Henry, are married and live away from home. A daughter, Mrs. Bertha Chew, lives in the East Bay.

Her late husband's father, Quan Yick Yuen, settled at the camp around 1900. (He was also known as Quon Hong Quock, and Mrs. Quan said, "The Chinese have lots of names for different reasons—one for school, one for business, etc. . . .")

The elder Quan stayed on at the camp, she said, after other Chinese settlers moved away.

"WHEN THEY planted sea bass in San Pablo Bay," she said, "they stopped net fishing, and all the Chinese except Henry's father left. Then another net was invented."

She said she was told that in the old days the McNear family charged a dollar a head a month as rent, and that when they called to col-

"THEY COULD say to get out tomorrow. I just don't know." Mrs. Grace Quan, cigar-smoking widow of Henry Quan, who ran China Camp for over a quarter of a century, is sad about the camp's dying. "We'll have to start all over from scratch," she says.

MRS. QUAN, right, goes about her daily chores, but she is worried about progress. "You can't have chickens in the back yard anymore," she moans. Here she and two men carry water into her store for the soft drinks cooler. She wonders where a "Riviera Marin" will get water. She has to haul it in every other day.

TEN YEARS AGO, summer 1949 China Camp looked like this. Compare it with the photo below taken this month and you will note little change. Shrimp fishing ended when they were killed off by pollution two years ago. Mrs. Quan blames the chemically treated sewage for their disappearance. "The tide doesn't take it all out," she says.

NOW THE FAMILY operates a boat rental business and snack bar. Here Mike Flavin, 16, tends the boats for weekend fishermen who get striped bass from the San Pablo Bay waters.

lect, all the Chinese would hide, except the children.

Mrs. Quan said the "McNears probably could have collected thousands of dollars a month at one time." Population estimates at China Camp have varied from 3,000, believed to have been a fairly stable population, to 10,000 when reportedly there were three "Chinese cities" in the area.

IN THE EARLY days the Chinese fished from junks fashioned after those of their native land, but during the heyday of the Quan operation, modern fishing boats were used.

Grace married Henry Quan in 1923 and moved to the camp. Born in Humboldt County and reared by a Chinese family, she met Henry through Chinese friends in San Rafael "one day when he delivered some shrimp."

"Our biggest year here," she said, "was in 1937 when there were really a lot of shrimp." In a scrapbook which she keeps in the tiny snack bar she showed a photograph of San Pedro road, lined with cars for hundreds of yards.

NOW THE WEEK days "are pretty dead, but there's good business on the weekends if there isn't too much wind," she said.

The walls of the snack bar display family members and friends smiling out from photographs taken after landing particularly big ones.

ABOUT HER CIGARS: "I don't see anything wrong with it, but when I started 20 years ago I smoked them at home. Then I came right out and smoked them in the open, and people get a bang out of it."

Recently after a newspaper article showed a picture of TODAY CHINA CAMP is only a cluster of rotting pilings and broken shacks. The Quan family does not plan to salvage anything when the corporation decides to take over. "It wouldn't be worth it," they say. The corporation plans to leave the beauty of the hills and trees undisturbed.

REMEMBER WHEN "Blood Alley" was filmed at China Camp? Marinites by the hundreds parked their cars on the road to walk down and satisfy their curiosity in December, 1954, and January, 1955, during the filming. Here are movie crews at work with boats constructed to make the setting resemble China.

NEVER SURE how long the camp store can last, Mrs. Quan goes about her snack bar business, here ringing up a small sale. "I believe that it will be two or three years yet," she says, but she knows that China Camp is dying. (Independent-Journal photos) her with her cigar (she uses a holder) "people came out here in droves to give me cigars—all kinds of cigars from all over."

The Quans own a small piece of property near Santa Venetia, and will move there when China Camp finally must be given up.

They will rent boats to fishermen, and in time, Mrs. Quan said, they probably will have the only business on the bayshore of Marin renting boats.

BUT WHETHER they take the name China Camp with them hasn't been decided. The name China Camp, like an old general, may fade away but will never die. It will be difficult for oldtimers to get accustomed to "Riviera Marin."

Back in December, 1954 Batjac productions, owned by John Wayne, began filming a movie, "Blood Alley" using China Camp as its setting.

A comedy of errors ensued. First Robert Mitchum, the male lead, became ired at one of the producers and dumped him into the 12-foot chill waters near Angel Island. Meanwhile a rented ferry boat had got lost in the fog for five hours. For weeks the fog closed in on China Camp, obscuring the scenery. The Quans were kept busy those weeks dispensing hot soup.

THEN JOHN WAYNE, Mitchum's replacement, injured his back and was confined to Marin General Hospital for several days.

The huge black limousines were a strange contrast, parked in the mud at the Camp those winter days.

WHEN CHINA CAMP comes to an end, whether it is next week or three years from now, with it will go part of Marin's country atmosphere. Artist who perched in the hills high above the cove will have to go farther afield for colorful scenery. The Sunday motorist and his family who drop into the camp to capture the past, or drive by on a country outing, will seek other roads.

Mrs. Quan touched a flame to her cigar and puffed. "I hate to see it go," she said.

ANY SUMMER DAY you can see a scene just about like this one, boats beached waiting for a bass fisherman to rent one and to buy a snack from Mrs. Quan. On weekends Marinites launch their small outboard boats from the beach, and often waterskiers pass, zooming up the coast from McNear's Beach. Mrs. Quan credits her son, Frank, with keeping business alive.

RICHMOND-SAN RAFAEL bridge appears to be lighted by candles as on a cake as it marks its third birthday Sept. 1. This is the year that has seen the bridge begin to pay for itself, moving into the black ink at last. And Marinites now take for granted that it will take them about 8 minutes to get from Richmond to Point San Quentin, a 20 minute trip by ferry. Construction is finally ending on the freeway approaches here in Marin. (Independent-Journal photos)

Third Year-Out Of Red

Traffic Up, Richmond-San Rafael Bridge Marks Opening On Sept. 1

Ending its third year of bearing traffic next Tuesday, the Richmond - San Rafael Bridge has this year moved out of the red ink and into the black. And the traffic load is steadily climbing month by month over the previous years.

Through July the bridge had served nearly 8 million vehicles. Yet there are many persons in Marin who admit with a laugh that they have "never been over it."

For the 4 months of 1956 when the bridge was shiny new it carried 875,975 cars and trucks. The next year two and a half million cars crossed, and in 1958 the tolls were collected from 2,783,716 drivers.

Toll bridge authorities expect this year's traffic to be substantially greater. Most recent figures are for June, 1959, in which traffic was up 10 per cent over June, 1958.

But the record for one day has stood—18,743 cars on Sept. 2, the first day of traffic after the opening in 1956.

In many ways the bridge construction was a remarkable operation. First of all, the bridge was finished a full month before original schedule. Then, too, Gerwick-Kiwert was awarded the substructure contract for a million and a quarter dollars under engineers' estimates.

New machines were designed to do the building. Two of the largest floating pile drivers in the world were rigged to pound huge H-piles deep into the bottom. Over 5,000 pilings were driven to anchor the bridge to the bay's bottom.

Up in Petaluma workers precast concrete cones. These were floated down the bay on barges and engineered into place under the water by divers. On top of these "feet" came the concrete shafts which stick out of the water. These were filled with concrete to form a solid base over which went more concrete forms and finally the steel "legs" that hold up the roadway of the bridge.

A floating concrete mixer, the Pacific Mixmaster, was built to brew up the 70,000 cubic yards of concrete for the job. A huge floating crane lifted 110-ton sections and dropped them into place within a fraction of an inch.

The bridge was probably the biggest deep sea diver job in the Pacific Coast up to that time. As many as 11 divers worked at once, operating underwater saws, guiding concrete shafts and cleaning out mud.

A state diver inspected each operation. One time the inspector, Bob Wendell, found himself floating upside down and helpless in an underwater concrete shell.

His line had become fouled, jerking him off of his feet and causing the air bubble to rush from his head to the bottom of his diving suit. This left him bobbing upside down in the water and unable to right himself. He shouted through the communication system to his tender on the surface who dived in and righted him. It wasn't until later that the workers learned that the tender couldn't swim.

There were other accidents too. During the three and one half years of construction one man died. Donald Webb, a 30-year-old steel worker, fell 200 feet into the water at mid-bay.

The winter of 1956 a violent storm struck with winds in 90-mile per hour gusts, shaking the uncompleted ends of the bridge. A roof was ripped from a construction shack and rows of heavy steel road-support beams were pushed over like ten-pins. Other small equipment was whisked into the choppy waters, but no major damage occurred.

Many have wondered at the unusual shape of the bridge, its angles and dips. The bridge has a curve because it had to connect with existing highways at each end. But navigational interests would not allow the bridge to cross shipping channels at more than a 10 degree angle. The

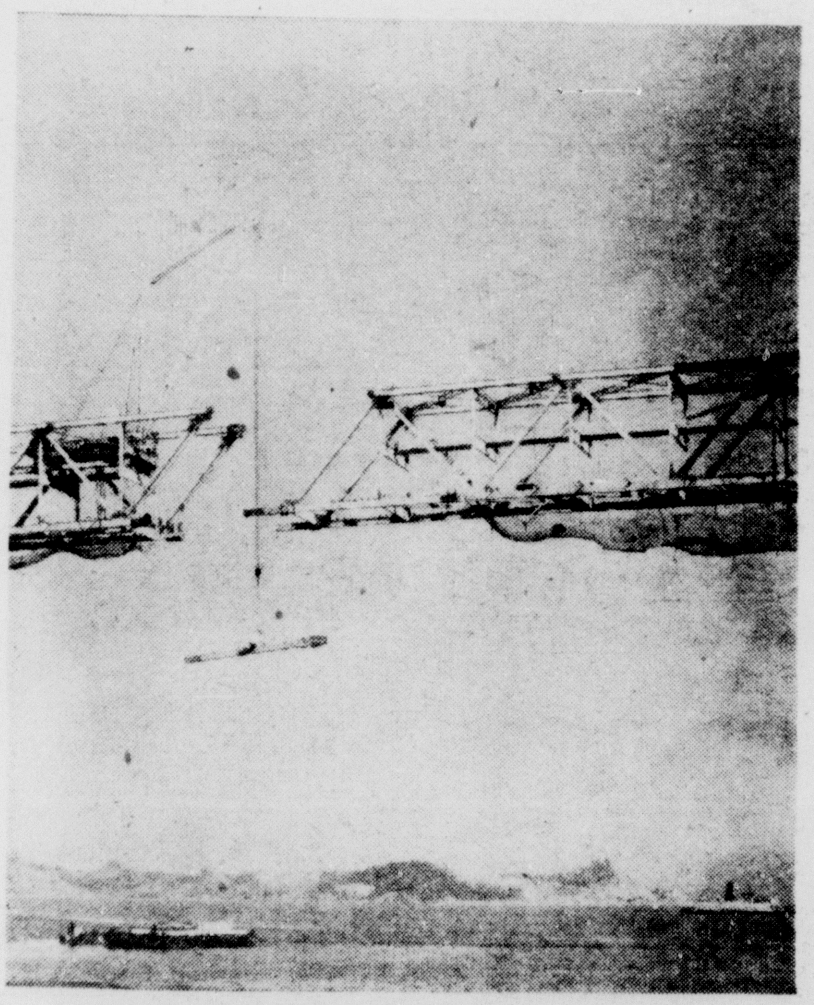
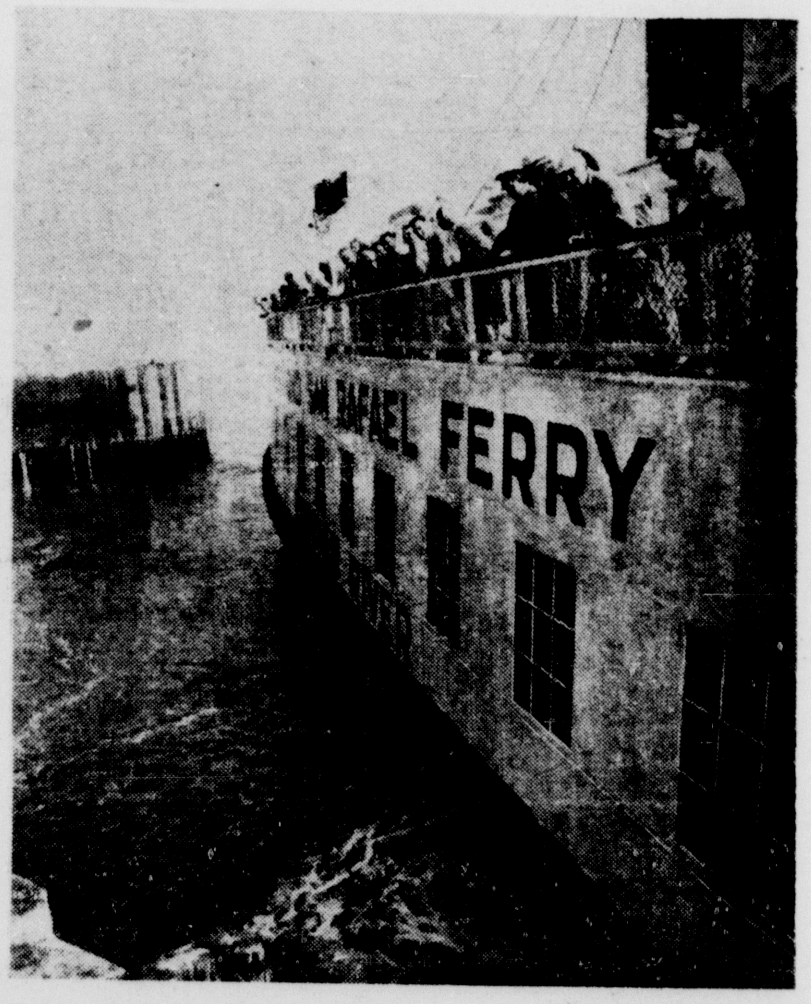
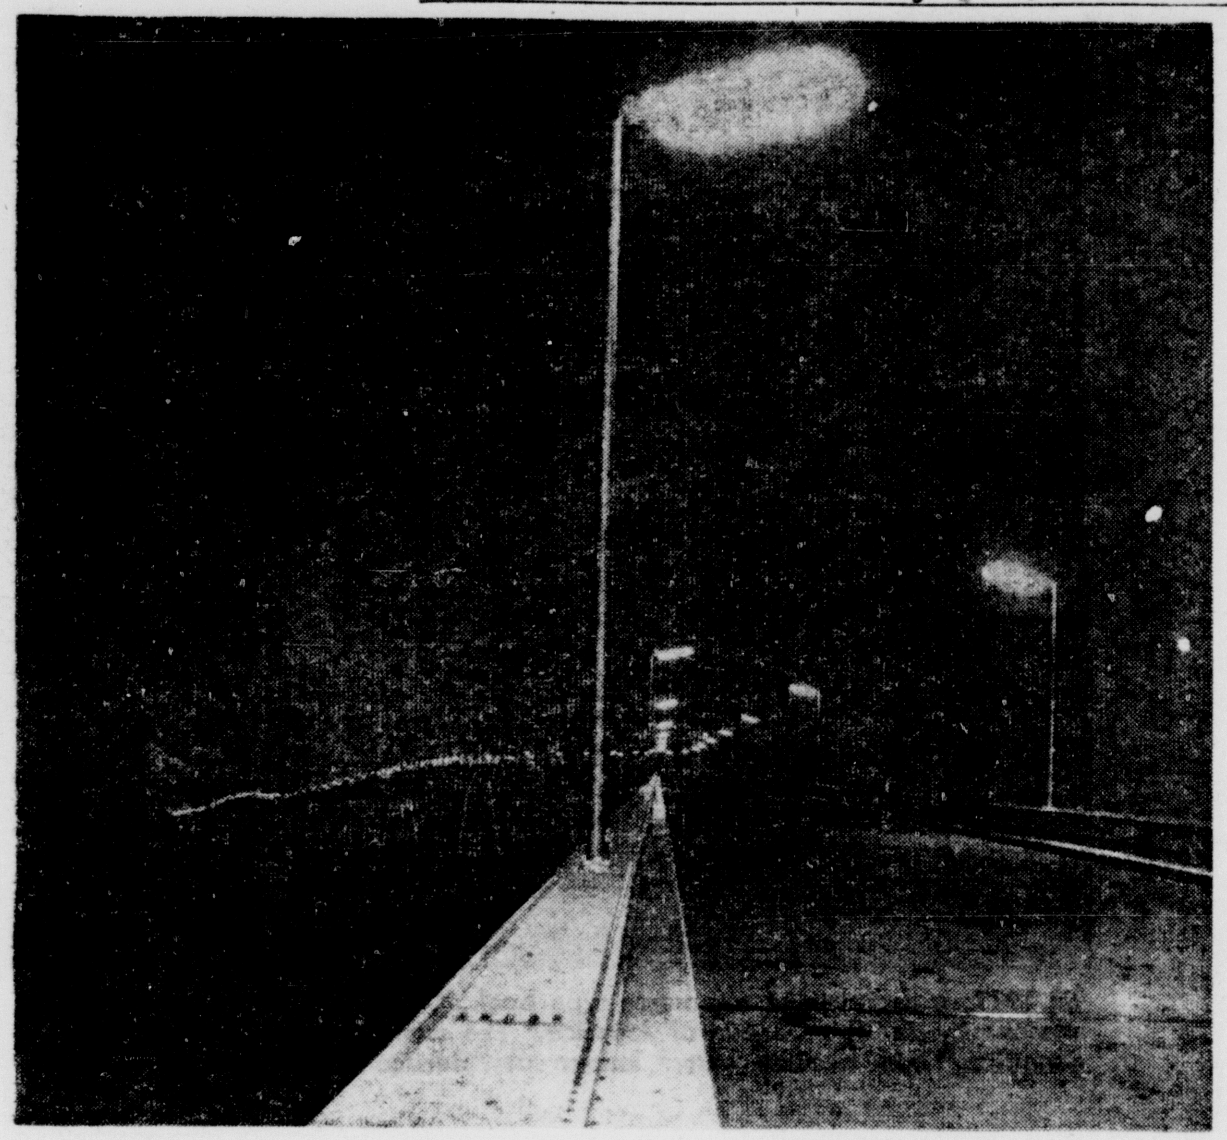
DIVERS worked continually beneath the surface setting the foundations of the bridge, while state divers inspected the steps of the work. Here diver is raised from the water in cage.



THE STRAW that broke the camel's back was this connecting link, tied with American flag, that represented the death blow to the ferry. All four boats were sold to Moore Drydock Co. of Oakland and burned and scrapped there. The Sierra Nevada had been built by that same company in 1913 for Western Pacific Railroad.



FERRY AGROUND was not an uncommon happenstance, the Russian River here proves. The bridge is far more efficient for motorists, but it doesn't provide the entertainment and occasional excitement that the boats did for weekenders and tourists. It has eliminated the dangers of thick fog, in which the boats would sound their horns constantly to keep from meeting head-on.



FINDING THE WAY across the bay in darkness or fog used to require plenty of skill and experience, which the long-time captains of the boats had. Most had seen 20 years service on the line. Now it's up to the motorist to drive the "roller coaster bridge"—an easy task, as there is no on-coming traffic. The road is brightly lighted all the way.

channels were angled toward San Pablo Bay, and thus the curve was necessary to meet all demands.

The completion of the bridge Sept. 1, 1956 rang the death knell for the auto carrying ferries on San Francisco Bay. Only ferry left in operation was at Benicia above San Pablo Bay.

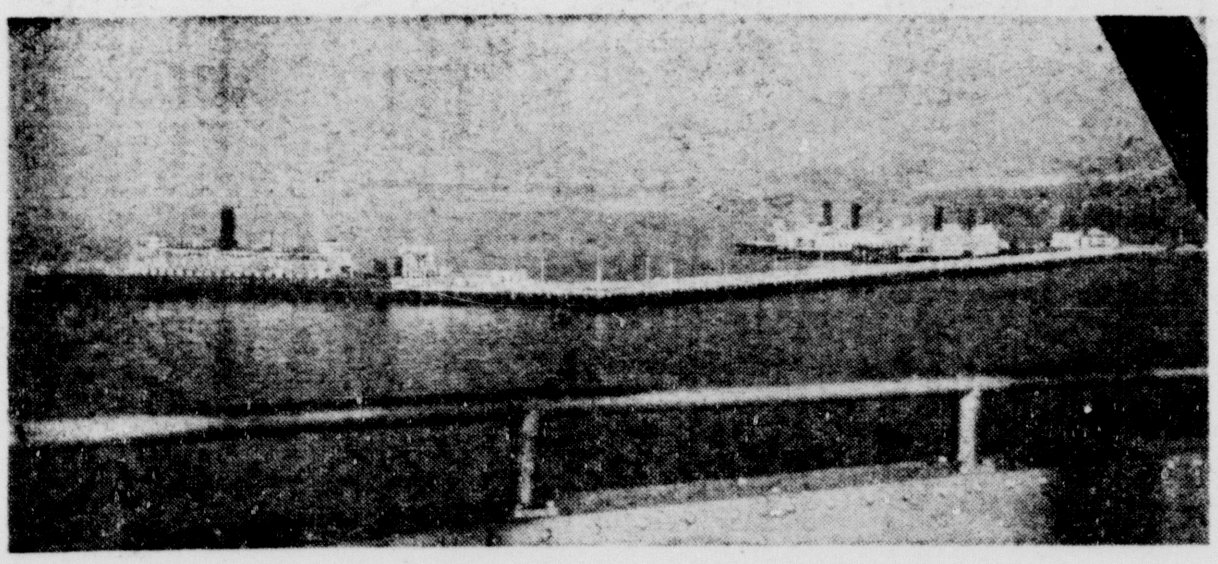
The ferries had plied the waters to Point San Quentin for 41 years, beginning with the SS Ellen, a 133 foot side-wheeler that made the first trip across May 1, 1915. She was converted to carry 17 autos and the first month carried 1,400 vehicles and 13,000 passengers across.

The Ellen was rented from a Mare Island company by the Marin owners of the ferry company. Over the years boats were added, including the "Richmond" and the "San Rafael." The SS Charles Van Damme carried cattle in its pens. In 1938 the ferry company replaced the wood-hulled side-wheel ferries with three steel boats, which remained in service until the bridge opened. In 1947 the Sierra Nevada was added, making four boats.

Labor difficulties culminating in a long strike ten years ago added impetus to the cause for a bridge. The boats, Klamath, Sierra Nevada, El Paso and Russian River in 1955, their last full year, carried nearly a million and a quarter vehicles.

With the bridge a-building the state purchased the ferry company pier and franchise for $1,000,000. When the boats creaked against the piers on the Richmond side three years ago, they rang down the curtain on the last ferryboat link to Marin.

HOW IT WAS—Opening night of the bridge, 3 years ago, saw the toll gate jammed. A rickety old truck was the first official car to cross. Well-wishers, curious, officials and police were among the traffic across the 4.1 miles.



AND WHAT HAPPENED to the ferries? All four came to rest in their pier at the Richmond side by midnight Aug. 31, 1956. Then they made a last trip to be broken up in Alameda. No longer would weekend motorists have to wait, boat after boat, to get across.

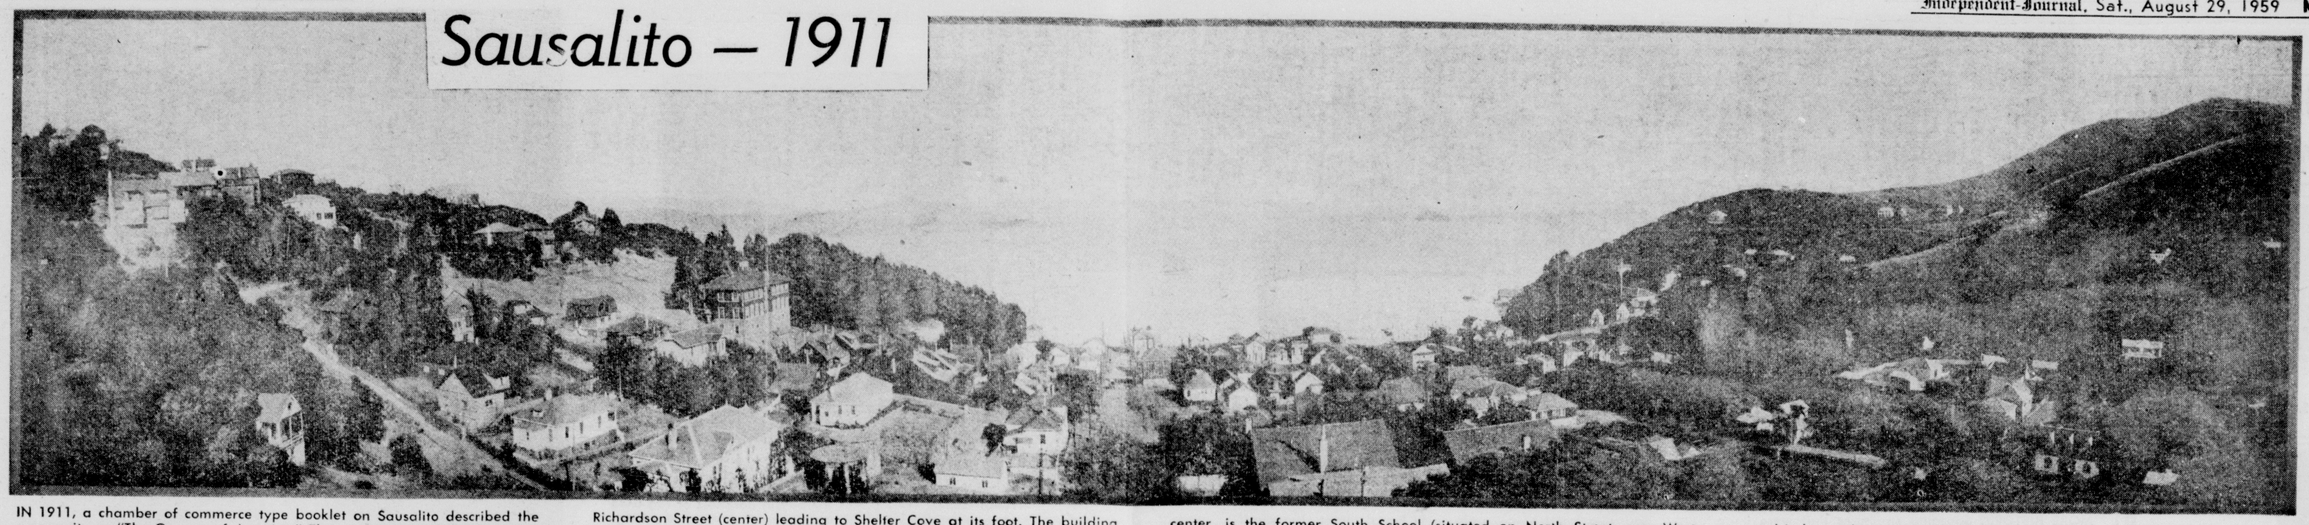
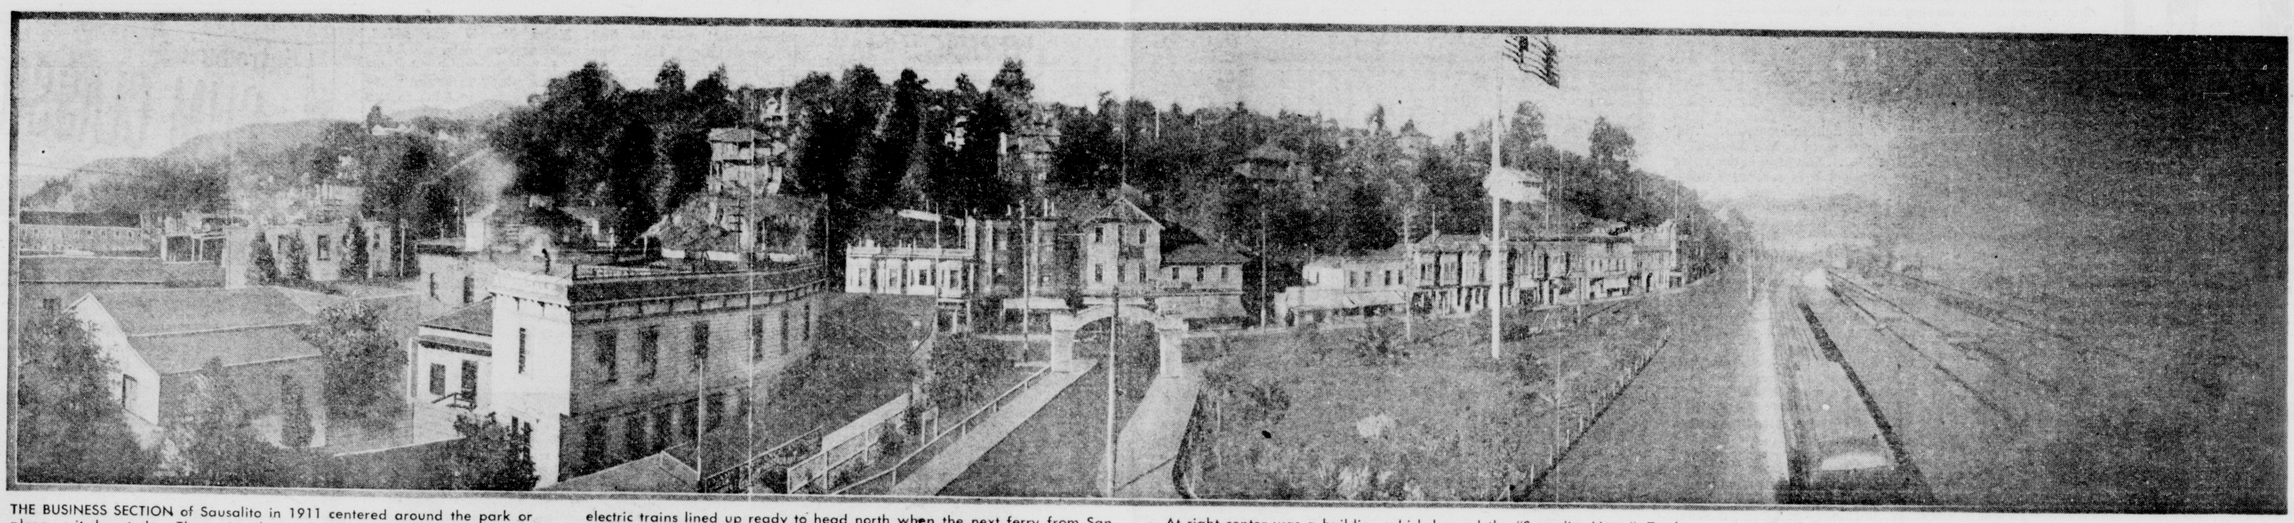
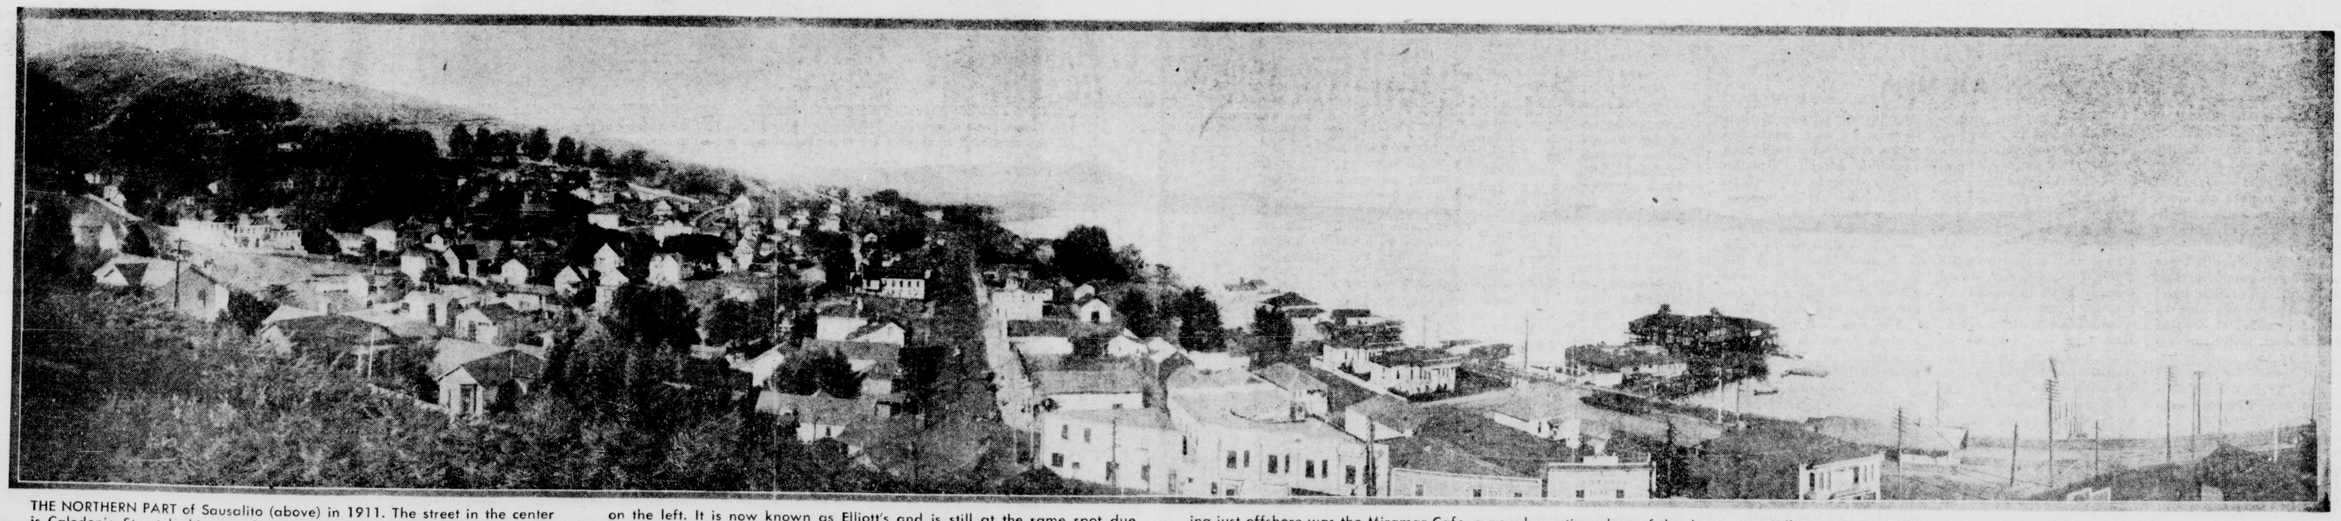
Sausalito — 1911



IN 1911, a chamber of commerce type booklet on Sausalito described the community as "The Geneva of America." The scene above, labeled "South Sausalito," has become better known as "Hurricane Gulch" and shows Richardson Street (center) leading to Shelter Cove at its foot. The building on the water's edge at the extreme right is a boathouse on the A. B. Spreckels estate which is still standing. The three-story building on the hill, left center, is the former South School (situated on North Street near West Street,) which has since been torn down to make way for a payground. The bulk of the homes shown here are still standing but have become hemmed in by modern structures. Shown at anchor in the cove are are several large craft including a gunboat (with two stacks) and (right) some type of steam driven auxiliary.



THE BUSINESS SECTION of Sausalito in 1911 centered around the park or plaza as it does today. The major change has been in the area at the far right. The scene above shows the Northwestern Pacific railroad yards with electric trains lined up ready to head north when the next ferry from San Francisco arrives. At far right, are the steam trains which made runs to Eureka, Ukiah, Willits, Santa Rosa, Petaluma and Russian River resorts. At right center was a building which housed the "Sausalito News". To the south of that structure was the Bank of Sausalito, now the city hall. Lower left is the "Arbordale", a popular German beer garden which also served steam clams to homeward bound commuters. High on the hill above the "Arbordale", partly hidden by trees, is the original Alta Mira hotel.



THE NORTHERN PART of Sausalito (above) in 1911. The street in the center is Caledonia Street looking northward showing the New Method Laundry on the left. It is now known as Elliott's and is still at the same spot due originally to the presence of pure spring water. The large structure on piling just offshore was the Miramar Cafe, a popular eating place of the day. It is now the location of the Arques yard. In the distance (center) is Pine Hill, removed in 1942 to make room for the wartime Marinship construction yard.

MORE HISTORIC Sausalito structures that were important parts of the community in 1911. The Walhalla is today's Valhalla Inn on Shelter Cove at the foot of Main Street. Only the Scandinavian spelling has been changed and the "facade" modernized. The "Arbordale," a true beer garden that specialized in serving clams, was located where the Sausalito Hotel now stands on El Portal Street. The small building with the launch in front of it (lower left) is where the Glad Hand restaurant now stands on piling. The twin turreted building (lower right) sometimes called the Jack London House is at Bridgeway and Richardson Streets. The man stands in the center of what is one of Sausalito's busiest traffic corners.

'Ah, Like Naples'

The following are excerpts from a booklet titled "Sausalito the Beautiful," published in 1911.

"A gentleman of culture, who had traveled the world over, was sitting on the veranda of a home in Sausalito, watching the glow of the setting sun on the clouds back of Mt. Tamalpais. In the foreground was Richardson's Bay, mystically beautiful in the soft light of evening. 'Ah,' said he, 'it is like Naples.'

". . . Sausalito is not a flag station. It is a country town, with well-equipped stores, a prosperous bank, churches, a public library, good schools, a high school within ten minutes reach, telephones and electric lights, an efficient water and sewerage system, and so well policed that petty crimes are almost unknown. And no wonder. The town 'Bastile' is on a marsh. At high tide the floor is flooded. No petty offender has ever desired more than one night's lodging. In this simple way has Sausalito solved the tramp problem.

"The transportation service to Sausalito is excellent, the commodious ferry boats leaving every half hour in the mornings and afternoons. There is always a comfortable seat for those who like reading, and plenty of standing room for those who prefer to chat with a friend, or promenade in the breeze of the after deck, watching the ever-changing scenery of the Golden Gate. Compare this enjoyable, life-giving half hour with the same period in a stuffy, crowded street car!

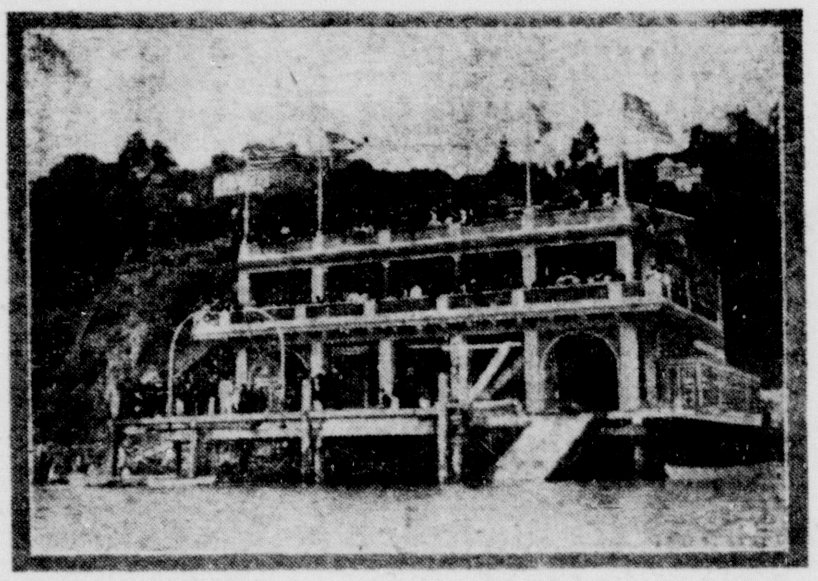
"For the tired, or the lazy man, busses await the arrival of the steamers; but to the more vigorous the winding roads encircling the hills offer a panacea for the day's work and appetite as the prize.

"Connecting with the ferry service are the electric trains for Mill Valley, Ross Valley and San Rafael and the other suburban towns in Marin County, each beautiful in its own way, but all lacking that one charm which belongs to Sausalito alone — its unsurpassed view of San Francisco Bay.

"Trains also leave here for the northernmost towns of Cazadero, passing through forests of giant redwoods on the way, and for Ukiah, traversing the fertile lands of the Santa Rosa Valley. Here, also, connection is made for the trip on the Mt. Tamalpais Scenic Railway, one of the wonders of California.

"The San Francisco Yacht Club, one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the United States, has its commodious home in Sausalito. From its wide verandas the wonderful bay is seen in all its splendor, and if you are a member or what is almost as profitable, the friend of one, you will be hospitably supplied with more than scenery.

"The busy man must be content on week days with what he sees in going to and from his work. It is on Sundays and holidays that the resident of Sausalito gathers his reward and realizes the advantages of his happy abode. If he be a fisherman the bay beckons to him. If he be a yachtsman the breezes call him. If he be a swimmer the waters allure him. If he is fond of walking there are cross-country jaunts without number—to Fort Baker, Lime Point, Point Bonita, Fort Barry, Jollies Beach, Mill Valley, Tennessee Beach and Mt. Tamalpais. To the sturdy pedestrian it is not too much of a task, with an early start, to climb old Tamalpais and on returning have a swim in the bay before dinner."



IN 1911, the San Francisco Yacht Club on Bridgeway (then Water Street) in Sausalito was an ever-present scene of gaiety, especially on regatta days. Today, it's upper floor houses Ondine Restaurant, while the lower floor will soon become a sort of coffe shop adjunct to its swankier upstairs neighbor. Meanwhile, preparations are being made to move the entire building 66 feet farther out in the bay to provide room for expansion. The San Francisco Yacht Club, second oldest in the U.S., has long since moved to its present quarters at Belvedere.

Science Punctures a Myth

Do you know that there are over 200 types of inks? And they all differ slightly in composition!—that's why removing ink stains from fabrics is such a problem, requiring the skill and technique of an experienced spotter.

Inks are classified as washable, permanent, and ball point. The fabric itself determines the ease and degree of removal of each of these classes. Some are removed by wet spotting reagents: some by dry reagents. The National Institute of Dry Cleaning cautions that if you do not know the type of ink you are trying to remove, you can set the stain and no method or technique will remove it.

The old favorite household remedies for removing ink stains from fabrics are myths. The most common one is "soaking the ink stain in milk." This probably got started because lactic acid is quite effective in removing the old tannate-type ink stains, and it was probably thought that the milk would sour as the stain soaked . . . forming lactic acid that would react with the ink. However, the amount of lactic acid formed is not sufficient to be effective on an ink stain—and, in fact, the milk may be more difficult to remove than the ink itself.

Another ill-advised home remedy that is dangerous is the use of oxalic acid. This is not used even in a commercial dry cleaning plant (except in very rare cases when it may be used as a reducing bleach) because of the dangers it presents. Oxalic acid is poisonous, hence should not be kept around the home. Moreover, it is difficult to rinse it from a fabric, with the result that it often causes fabric deterioration and discoloration in a short while.

The new ball point inks contain dyes that penetrate rapidly. They are much more difficult to remove by bleaching and soaking than are the dyes used in ordinary inks. It is wise to entrust your ink marked clothing to the professional cleaner for removal rather than to set the stain permanently with home methods that just won't work.

San Francisco Ballet Troupe To Dance At Forest Meadows

The San Francisco Ballet now internationally famous, will bring the Marin Music Chest's Silver Anniversary Summer Concert Season to a close tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in Forest Meadows, Dominican College, San Rafael.

In January, 1957, the ballet company made a 10-week, 35,000 mile tour of 11 Asian nations. The ballet performed before the King of Thailand, Madame Chiang Kai-shek, the Governor General of Hong Kong, Prime Minister of Burma and other dignitaries. Earlier this year it toured 14 Latin American countries and has recently returned from a four month tour of the Middle East. Directed by Lew Christensen, this group has won world-wide fame for its artistry and repertoire.

Founded in 1933, the ballet company began to make a name for itself in the first years of existence under Adolph Bolm, its first choreographer. Bolm was succeeded by Serge Oukrainsky in 1936 who appointed William Christensen as "premier danseur." Christensen made the ballet a full-scale operation, adding such works as "Coppelia," "Swan Lake" and "The Nutcracker" in its entirety.

Its dancers, with few exceptions, were trained in the San Francisco Ballet School. This close association of company and school is largely responsible for their style and esprit de corps.

An entirely new program will be presented tomorrow. Featured dancers are Marin's Sally Bailey, Nancy Johnson, Jocelyn Vollmar and Richard Carter. Three full-length ballets are programmed. They are "Sinfonia," choreography by Lew Christensen, music by Luigi Boccerini, decor and costumes, Tony Duquette; "Serenade," choreography by Balanchine, music by Tchaikovsky and costumes by Duquette; and "Caprice," choreography by Christensen, music by Franz Von Suppe, decor and costumes, Duquette.

The dancers will be accompanied by members of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra under direction of Earl Bernard Murray.

During first intermission, Judge Carlos R. Freitas, Music Chest president, will introduce 1959 Music Chest scholarship winners: Mary Larsen, 15, pianist; Robert Silva, 17, pianist; William Silva, 17, (no relation) flutist; and Jane Marsh, 17, soprano. Each has received a $200 scholarship.

MARIN'S Sally Bailey will be a featured soloist when the San Francisco Ballet performs at Forest Meadows, San Rafael, tomorrow evening.

ANOTHER soloist tomorrow night will be Nancy Johnson. The ballet company will present 27 dancers, accompanied by members of the San Francisco Symphony for the outdoor performance.

Bolshoi Ballet Dancer Finds America Is Very 'Paintable'

By W. G. ROGERS

Top male artists in the Bolshoi Ballet Company which has just toured this country is an artist in two senses:

He dances, and he also paints.

Yuri Zhdanov, the personable curly-haired Romeo in the visitors' "Romeo and Juliet" and partner to the famed Galina Ulanova in several other numbers, brought his paints with him and did about a dozen pictures.

"My life is dancing, of course," he says, "but I like very much to paint."

His scenes show a domed building in San Francisco by day and by night, taken from his hotel window; a pool in the grounds of a Hollywood hotel, with gaily colored beach umbrellas; a bulky palm in the garden of a house in Los Angeles; a dramatic sweep of shore at Santa Monica, Calif.; and a street corner in Montreal with vigorously drawn tiny figures of passers-by.

"I have painted in Paris and in London," he says, speaking mainly through an interpreter though he knows some English words. "The pictures of London formed an exhibition in Moscow, and other paintings of mine have been on public view there in what we call the House of the Artists."

He began to draw as a child, and for a time as he grew up he carried a sketch book with him while he developed his professional career on stage.

"I find your country very paintable. But New York is not easy because there's no place to sit down. London and Paris have benches, here I'd have to paint standing up except for what I can see out of my windows."

Zhdanov paints within his country's older tradition, without ever imposing himself arbitrarily on the scenes he selects to transfer to his panels. He might be mistaken for an English landscape painter of the last century.

FAMILIAR THINGS

Thoughts On California In Book By Bishop Guilfoyle

CALIFORNIA, STATE OF GRACE by Bishop Merlin J. Guilfoyle, Academy Library Guild, $3.75, 148 pp.

Here is a second book from Bishop Guilfoyle, pastor of Mission Dolores Basilica and auxiliary Bishop of the archdiocese of San Francisco.

His first book, "San Francisco—No Mean City," was a collection of his thoughts on various subjects of the city. In this volume he extends these thoughts to the whole State of California, discussing the eucalyptus trees, the golden poppies, the Missions, the quail, the seal and Seals team and all manner of things familiar here.

The book is a quiet commentary on all these subjects and is a pleasant way to spend an hour before retiring.

Included in it are bits of poetry appropriate to the subject at hand. Black and white reproductions of watercolor and ink drawings enhance the whole.

The Bishop explains how each Mission was named and how Father Serra came from Majorca to establish them.

The chapters are full of interesting pieces of information, such as the fact that the style of Spanish adobe houses found here had origin in the days of the early Egyptians, who built their homes of mud. The Moors carried this art of mud brick-making to Spain.

The Indians in California had used mud for houses but never had made bricks of it, just pouring it as we do concrete. The Padres taught them the Spanish way, originally started by the Greeks and the Egyptians.

JACKET drawing shows Wild Bill Hickok, the quick-tempered gunslinger, whose biography is just out. Indian fighter, free lance soldier in the Civil War and marshal of Abilene, Hickok was a busy man.

GOLDFINGER, by Ian Fleming, Macmillan, $3, 318 pp.

Here is a man's book designed to dazzle the reader with the sheer fantastic courage and daring of the villain. Also the story's hero, a British Government secret service agent, is in the he-man vein and he doesn't let anyone get the better of him long.

In this story he almost meets his match in Goldfinger, who has a neat system for getting gold out of England and making a high profit on it in India. He also turns out to have a hook-up with the Russians, but that is not the big, big plot of the story.

We don't want to spoil it for you, but Fort Knox figures prominently. A fast-paced and interestingly told yarn in the adventure series of Bond, the secret agent. This is Fleming's third Bond book, and he knows how.

YES, MY DARLING DAUGHTERS, by David Duncan, Doubleday, $3.95, 238 pp.

The author, himself the father of teen-age daughters, writes the story of a writer whose three daughters keep him in hot water while they emerge unscalded.

This is one of those books that it is a pleasure to read especially on the summer vacation while you are stretched out under the fir trees in the Sierras or on the beach at Bolinas.

MARINITE EDITS BOOK

The first book ever published on the Chesapeake Bay retriever has been compiled by the American Chesapeake Club. Editor is the club's president, Mrs. Walter S. Heller of San Rafael.

The book tells the story of the famous breed from its inception in America after a shipwreck in 1807 to the present. It is tied up with the gunning and duck-hunting history of America. The book explains how to choose a puppy, how to start your hunting dog, and manners for him. It also gives a complete account of last year's field trials.

The book has been printed in an edition of 500 copies with photographs and sells for $7.50.

Garden Cocktail Is Lethal To Insects

Take 1 part nicotine sulphat
Add 1 part malathion
Add 1 part DDT
Add 1 part karathane
Add 1 part water soluble fertilizer

Mix well with water according to the instructions on each individual product and you have a "Garden Cocktail" to kill your garden insects and diseases the easy way. Use with care for it is a lethal "Mickey Finn" for insects and should be used with caution.

One of the basic problems facing gardeners is proper insect control. After all there are over 300,000 types of insects and numerous plant diseases to be controlled. Unfortunately, there is no one ingredient which provides an answer to all of these problems and most gardeners find themselves using two, three or even four different sprays to solve their insect problems.

One answer to this problem can be found in combination spraying, or what we call a "garden cocktail." Combination spraying provides easier application because the end result is a spray that can do several jobs at one time. This is made possible by using insecticides and fungicides that are compatible and can be used together.

By mixing a "garden cocktail"— in one spraying operation, you can accomplish insect control that previously would take several days to do. Not only will you control more different types of insects and garden pests at one time . . . you will be saving yourself the fuss and bother of emptying old solutions, filling sprayers with new solutions, and wasting a good portion of your insecticides.

The first ingredient we suggest for your "garden cocktail" is nicotine sulphate solution. This will control sucking insects, aphids, thrips and leafhoppers.

To strengthen the "knock-out" quality of this cocktail add malathion or DDT for more insect control.

To this combination add karathane to control fungus, mildew and foliage diseases.

A "shot" of water soluble fertilizer provides the perfect ingredient to build plant health while killing off insects and diseases with the cocktail's other ingredients.

This particular "garden cocktail" recipe is meant only to serve as a guide for you. You can mix your own variations to meet the specific needs of your particular garden.

In mixing your "garden cocktail" be sure to read the instructions on each individual ingredient to make sure it can be used in a combination spray and to get specific mixing instructions. Also, carefully heed the cautions on each product with regard to application, human exposure etc. because a "garden cocktail" must be used with all of the care and caution required by its ingredients.

Until some new and wonder working universal product is found, and that still is a long way off, combination spraying by mixing a "garden cocktail" provides one of the best and easiest ways to proper garden care.

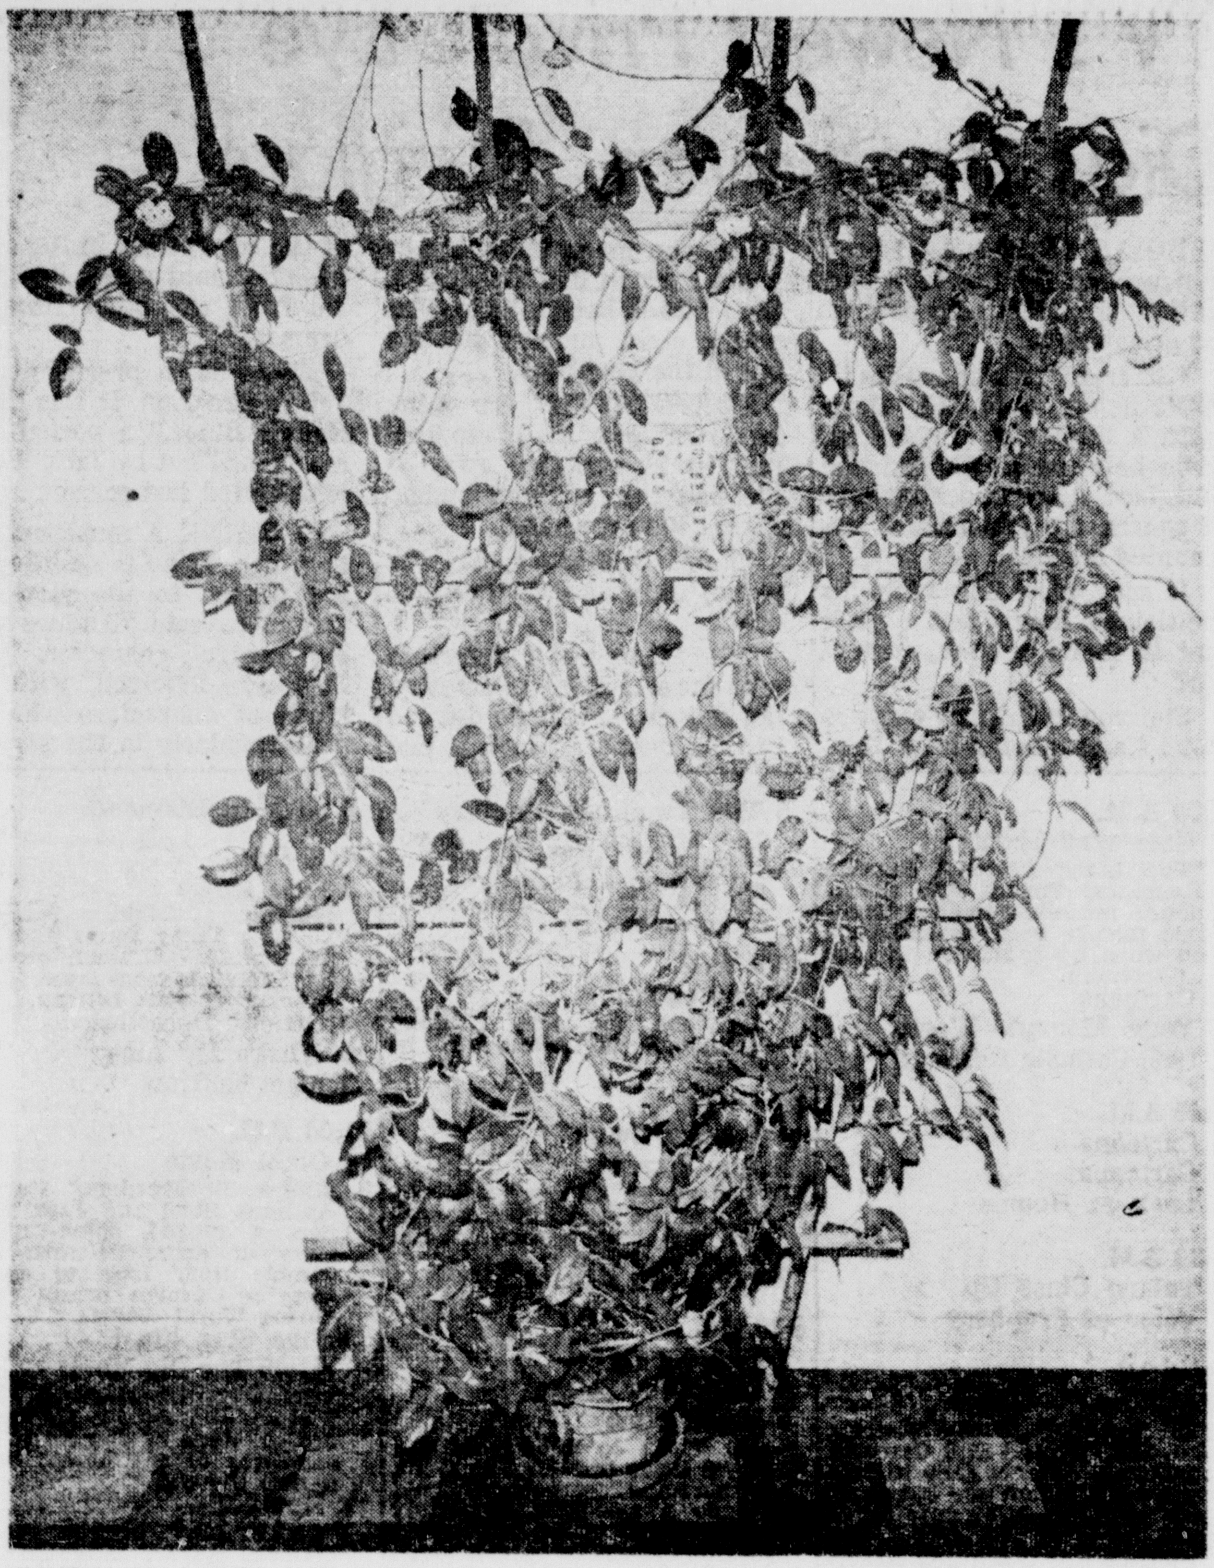
Marin Gardens



UNUSUALLY LARGE is the Hawaiian vine or porcelain plant of Herman Salsburg which grows in his bakery in Mill Valley. It is 6 feet tall and spans 4 feet on its trellis. "Customers often think we wire the flowers on," Mrs. Salsburg says.

EACH FLOWER comes out like a sky rocket—a maroon shade then it turns to a 5-pointed star and then becomes a pale pink shade. Mr. Salsburg said that the Hawaiian vine grows in the Islands up trees, reaching up about 7 feet. His plant is in his bakery, 234 E. Blithedale, Mill Valley. (Independent-Journal photos)

THERE ARE 3 varieties of the defenbachia, the Salsburgs said. Theirs is the variety whose leaves are green with silver splashes. Mr. Salsburg, a baker with a green thumb, said that his vine blooms from April to September. As soon as one flower blooms another forms beneath it, causing customers to accuse him of tying the flowers on to the plant. The Salsburgs have slipped some successfully, but do not want to clip their plant, which is about 7 years old.

Weekly TV Log

ADVENTURE SERIES — John Cassavetes stars as Johnny Staccato, a jazz pianist who takes private detective assignments, in "Staccato," NBC-TV series starting Thursday, Sept. 10. Cassavetes is shown with Ruta Lee, who will appear in an early episode of the weekly drama series.

TV's Newest Private-Eye Digs Beethoven, Burglars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Here's a new wrinkle for a television series—a pianist who doubles as private-eye.

"Staccato," which makes its NBC debut Sept. 10, deals with a hero who divides his time between Beethoven and burglars. After knocking over a sonata, he knocks out uncounted heavies.

It may play hob with his musician's hands, but a guy's got to make a buck, doesn't he?

Starring in the new entry is John Cassavetes, a New York actor who made it big a few years back in live TV drama, then shrank back to video size when eight movies konked out at the boxoffice.

FORTUNATELY for John, he doesn't play the piano himself, so he can flail away at the bad guys without endangering his arpeggios.

"I not only can't play the piano," he grinned, "I'm tone deaf.

"But that won't interfere with the series. My piano-playing sequences will be dubbed in. The music, in fact, is one of the big factors in the show which should make it different from any other situation dramas."

There is a precedent for John's program. It was "Pete Kelly's Blues," a period drama turned out by Jack Webb, which died last season.

"I THINK a musician can be a hero if he is an interesting person to the viewers," Cassavetes said. "And we have our central character, John Staccato, involved with all kinds of characters who appear regularly in the series.

Stepin Fetchit Has Switched To 'White Collar' Comedy

CHICAGO (AP) — Stepin Fetchit shambled and shuffled through an era when mumbling in dialect thick as cornpone and sporting a floppy, disreputable gray felt hat were staples of comedy.

They aren't anymore, says Stepin Fetchit, who at 66 is out of retirement and launching a new career as a television and night club entertainer.

"THE CHARACTER as I did it is out," he says with no regrets.

"This is a new world, do you savvy? The Negro has advanced way past that stage.

"I'll still leave part of the old routine in, see, just for the benefit of those who remember it. But mainly I want to be a white collar comedian. Nowadays, you've got to be able to come out looking like a Negro doctor and get laughs."

The man who made a fortune playing types based on a man with a whopping aversion to work has already won critical acclaim with his new format.

"IF YOU SAW me on the Jack Paar show, you know what I mean when I talk about my new act. I did the old routine when I made my exit, but I got just as many laughs before that on straight comedy."

Stepin Fetchit, born Lincoln Theodore Andrew Perry in Key West, Fla., got his start in a minstrel show in Montgomery, Ala., more than 50 years ago, teaming with Ed Lee in an act billed as "The Two Dancing Fools from Dixie, Step and Fetchit."

"I guess I got the lazy idea from my partner," he recalls. "He was so lazy he used to call a cab to get across the street. Pretty soon it got so bad he wasn't showing up for performances."

SILENT PICTURES were at their zenith when he got a part in MGM's "In Old Kentucky."

Movies followed movies in rapid succession, "all the top ones — nothing but deluxe." How many movies? "I counted them by money. I made two million dollars worth."

Then, in the early '40s, the bubble burst. He sank a wad into a planned film biography of Satchell Paige, the great Negro baseball star. Step was to play Satch, but he went bankrupt instead.

This time around, the billing is different: "Stepin Fetchit, the former lazybones of the screen."

ADVENTUROUS ENGINEERS—Keenan Wynn (left) and Bob Mathias will co-star in the NBC-TV series "Troubleshooters," which describes the global exploits of two construction engineers sent to large foreign building projects. The weekly series starts Friday, Sept. 11.
